Scott Gorham and Ricky Warwick created BLACK STAR RIDERS out of the modern version of THIN LIZZY, the band in which Gorham had served in its golden age during the 1970s on classic albums including “Jailbreak”, “Bad Reputation”, “Live And Dangerous” and “Black Rose”. Rounding out the BLACK STAR RIDERS line up is guitarist Christian Martucci, formerly of Stone Sour, bassist Robert Crane, formerly of RATT and VINCE NEIL, and drummer Chad Szeliga, formerly of BREAKING BENJAMIN and BLACK LABEL SOCIETY.

SONATA ARCTICA

On September 6th, Finnish melodic metal titans SONATA ARCTICA will release their tenth studio album, called Talviyö (which means Winter Night), including eleven new tracks.

"We were talking about having an album cover made from a photo and luckily managed to find this award winning photographer Omri Wiljami who actually hails from a village not too far from our hometown and his pictures were just perfect for this album", explains keyboardist Henrik "Henkka" Klingenberg.

"The idea was to create an album that is musically in line with at least the previous two albums", says vocalist Tony Kakko and adds: "I am very happy with the songs and the general mood of the album. Some career highlights there, I feel."

"We recorded a bunch of kick ass songs and tried some new stuff as well. I'm really proud of how we managed to record the band sounding more live, playing together instead of just tracking everything one by one", states Henrik "Henkka" Klingenberg.

Talviyö was recorded between September 2018 and May 2019, produced by Mikko Tegelman and SONATA ARCTICA in 'Studio57'. Additional recordings took place in various other places. "Mikko produced the album and he really managed to push us to do our best, even with the more experimental stuff. Working with an outside producer was the biggest new thing we tried this time," says Henrik "Henkka" Klingenberg.

The mixing was done by Mikko Tegelman and Pasi Kauppinen and the mastering was handled by Svante Forsbäck for 'Chartmakers'.

Marketing Highlights

- Since the mid-90s Finland's SONATA ARCTICA have released nine full length released and toured the world bringing their own brand of power metal along with them. "Talviyö" is the band's tenth full length release, their first since 2016's "The Ninth Hour"
- The album title, cover and release date for "Talviyö" was announced on June 21. Along with the announcement the first single and video for the track "A Little Less Understanding" was released. The track list announcement and pre-order date will coincide on July 19
- Leading up to the release of "Talviyö" there will be a variety of album trailers released in addition to singles and videos for the tracks "Cold" on Aug 23, "Who Failed the Most" on Sep 6, and "Message From the Sun" on Nov 8

TINARIWEN
AMADJAR

STREET DATE: 9/6/19

Amadjar means 'the unknown visitor' in the language of Tamashek, the one who seeks hospitality and who's condemned to an inner exile, within a territory or within himself. The story of Amadjar, the ninth Tinariwen album, begins at the end of 2018, at the Taragalte Festival of nomadic cultures in the Moroccan Sahara. After a concert and a sandstorm, Tinariwen hit the road and head for Mauritania, via southern Morocco, Western Sahara and the Atlantic coast. The destination is important but no more so than the journey itself.

Tinariwen are joined by their French production team, who arrive in old camper van that's been converted into a makeshift studio. The journey to Nouakchott, capital of Mauritania, takes a dozen days or so. Every evening, the caravan stops to set up camp and the members of Tinariwen get to work under the stars – to prepare for the recording, talking things through, letting their guitar motifs, thoughts and long buried songs come. Then, during a final camp in the desert around Nouakchott that lasts about fifteen days, to an audience of scorpions, the band record their songs under large tent. In a few takes, without headphones or effects. The Mauritanian griotte Noura Mint Seymali and her guitarist husband, Jeiche Ould Chigaly, come to throw their musical tradition on the embers lit by Tinariwen – the curling vocals of Noura Mint Seymali on the song 'Amalouna' will become a highlight.

This nomadic album, recorded in a natural setting, is as close as you can get to Tinariwen. And also, therefore, to the idea that things can evolve: bassist Eyadou plays a lot of acoustic guitar; percussionist Said tries his hand at new instruments; Abdallah exhumes songs that he's never played on stage with Tinariwen. And that violin that appears on several songs and reminds you of the traditional imzad; It's actually played by Warren Ellis. The violinist in Nick Cave's band is one of several western guests on the album. We also hear the mandolin and charango of Micah Nelson (son of the country music giant Willie Nelson, and Neil Young's guitarist), and the guitars of Stephen O'Malley (Sunn O))), Cass McCombs and Rodolphe Burger. The album is mixed by Joshua VanceSmith.

TURN ON,
TUNE IN

nrbq

For over 50 years, each NRBQ performance has been about breaking new ground, and about moving forward and upward. The stage is where their music is born, and where it lives, breathes, develops, and thrives.

Turn On, Tune In catches NRBQ on location in two different settings; a 6-track set performed on Sirius/XM's The Loft, and a 15-song show at WFMU's Monty Hall in Jersey City, NJ. These 21 tracks will be available on CD, Digital, and on a double LP. The CD and LP versions both contain a bonus DVD with the professionally shot Monty Hall performance. And all formats contain notes from longtime WFMU DJ Bob Brainen detailing the songs and players, while offering insight into the material and the band.

Turn On, Tune In captures the spirit of this unique group of individuals on two special occasions featuring first-time live recordings of most of the material and six songs previously unrecorded by NRBQ. Terry Adams (keyboards and vocals) and Scott Ligon (guitar and vocals) consistently exhibit the musical telepathy they've developed over 12 years, along with Casey McDonough (bass/vocals), fresh off Brian Wilson's Pet Sounds World Tour, and newest member John Perrin (drums) brings his own hunger and enthusiasm for spontaneity and creativity to the group.

KEY SELLING POINTS

- 21 tracks recorded live for Sirius/XM and WFMU.
- Available on CD, Digital, and on double LP.
- CD & LP contain bonus DVD of the WFMU performance.
- Liner notes from WFMU's Bob Brainen.

It's fitting that the performances captured on Turn On, Tune In were presented in affiliation with two stations known for their "free-form" approach to radio. Because no other band has had as uncategorical an approach to music as NRBQ.

"We have our own genre," says Terry Adams. "It can't be contained by somebody else's idea. There's not a preexisting niche or style that we're willing to sign up for."

So turn on your choice of formats and tune in to NRBQ for an original and exciting multimedia experience

■ OVERVIEW

The Competition, the anticipated fourth album from Lower Dens, is a pop album with a concept both emotionally and politically urgent. The title is lead singer and songwriter Jana Hunter's term for a sociopsychological phenomenon that, in different ways, binds us all. Modern capitalism by nature generates a psychosis that accelerates our insecurities and anxieties to the point of total overload, corroding our intimacies, our communities, and our senses of self. The Competition speaks, in various ways, to the necessity of "socially de-conditioning ourselves and learning how to be people," Hunter says. "The issues that have shaped my life, for better or for worse, have to do with coming from a family and a culture that totally bought into this competitive mindset."

The band's first three albums—Twin-Hand Movement, Nootropics, and Escape from Evil—formed a narrative of sorts, about finding community, and identifying one's responsibilities. This trajectory was interrupted by personal crises including frustrating battles with mental health. At the same time, Hunter was and is still undergoing a gender transition they had been deferring for many years. "I repressed the idea for a long time," Hunter says.

Hunter studied Western classical music growing up, "but I was wild and in a lot of pain, and it didn't really touch that. What did, especially as a very young person, was pop — a spectrum ranging anywhere from Prince to Anne Murray. Home life was very bleak, and pop songs were a guaranteed escape to a mental space where beauty, wonder and love were possible. I wanted to write songs that might have the potential to do that."

The Competition draws on influences ranging across decades of Western pop music and chronicles messy, vulnerable humanity at a time of upheaval and chaos — through immersive, four-minute songs meant to give pleasure as much as provoke self-examination. It channels an urgent, restless desire to connect. "My voice is gonna be different when I perform these songs than it was when I recorded them," Hunter says. "I'm equally terrified of and excited by that, but I always want to be more myself onstage, to reach people."

THROBBING GRISTLE

D.o.A. The Third and Final Report of Throbbing Gristle

Street Date: 9/6/19

Mute are happy to announce the re-release of Throbbing Gristle's D.o.A. The Third and Final Report of Throbbing Gristle on double CD (album plus 11 bonus tracks) with an 8 page booklet and transparent green vinyl with 8 page 12" booklet and download with the 11 bonus tracks. This is their second full length album, which was originally released in 1978 on the Industrial label.

Pitchfork described the album as "a nauseating masterpiece, and an essential recording". AllMusic stated that the album "finds the group assembling collages of computer noise, cassette tapes on fast forward, looped feedback and tape hiss, surreptitiously recorded conversation, threatening phone calls, and much more, all to a grand alienating effect, the sound of a gray day in a British tower block after all the drugs have run out."

The album was included in the book 1001 Albums You Must Hear Before You Die. Throbbing Gristle member Chris Carter recalled: "DoA showcased some of our strongest work and established the course we would head in."

Throbbing Gristle are Chris Carter, Peter 'Sleazy' Christopherson (who sadly passed away on November 25, 2010), Cosey Fanni Tutti and Genesis Breyer P-Orridge.

Throbbing Gristle's Greatest Hits

Street Date: 9/6/19

Mute are happy to announce the re-release of Throbbing Gristle's Greatest Hits on double CD with 6-page eco and 8 page booklet and transparent orange LP with 8 page 12" booklet + download with 9 bonus tracks.

Throbbing Gristle's innovative working methods are deeply ingrained in the collective consciousness of... everything. The band's subversive dismantling of systems of social control impacted culture well beyond their time, and as impossible as it may seem, this collection actually provides an exceptional summation of their best work.

The first real industrial group, the founders of Industrial Records and one of the most important electronic music creators of all time, Throbbing Gristle redefined music and laid a large part of the groundwork for all electronic music that followed.

Throbbing Gristle, one of the most politically and sonically antagonistic bands of all time, have left an impact on music, culture and the arts that is immeasurable and still felt today.

Throbbing Gristle are Chris Carter, Peter 'Sleazy' Christopherson (who sadly passed away on November 25, 2010), Cosey Fanni Tutti and Genesis Breyer P-Orridge.

FAD GADGET

THE BEST OF FAD GADGET

Street Date: 9/6/19

Mute are excited to announce the release of The Best Of Fad Gadget, to be released on September 6 as part of the MUTE 4.0 (1978>TOMORROW) series. This is a limited edition repress on silver vinyl.

Fad Gadget, who alongside Human League, Cabaret Voltaire and The Normal, was at the forefront of the Electronic Movement of the late 70s/early 80s, is recognized as one of the most influential acts of the last twenty years. The first signing to the Mute label, Fad Gadget released his debut single, the ground breaking, "Back To Nature" in October 1979 (recently featured in Season 2 of Stranger Things). Recorded using a drum machine and synthesiser, a string of classic singles followed including "Ricky's Hand", "Fireside Favourites" and "Collapsing New People". A truly unique artist, his live shows were legendary and quickly established Fad Gadget as one of the most exciting acts of the time.

This collection features tracks from Fad Gadget's four critically acclaimed albums, Fireside Favourites (1980), Incontinent (1981), Under The Flag (1982), and Gag (1984). Frank Tovey dropped the Fad Gadget name and recorded a further five albums for Mute under his own name throughout the '80s and early '90s. He continued to experiment with many different styles, mixing electronics with rock, punk, folk and dance music.

"Mesmerizing... Fad Gadget—aka Frank Tovey—laid the groundwork for a generation of synth bands." -Billboard

FRANKIE COSMOS CLOSE IT QUIETLY

SUB
POP

CD / LP / CS / DIGITAL

SP 1320

RELEASE DATE: SEPTEMBER 6TH, 2019

NON-EXPORTABLE
OUTSIDE OF THE US.

Close It Quietly is a continual reframing of the known. It's like giving yourself a haircut or rearranging your room. You know your hair. You know your room. Here's the same hair, the same room, seen again as something new. Close It Quietly takes the trademark Frankie Cosmos micro-universe and upends it, spilling outwards into a swirl of referentiality that's a marked departure from earlier releases, imagining and reimagining motifs and sounds throughout the album. The band's fourth studio release is a manifestation of their collaborative spirit: Greta Kline and longtime bandmates Lauren Martin (synth), Luke Pyenson (drums), and Alex Bailey (bass) luxuriated in studio time with Gabe Wax, who engineered and co-produced the record with the band.

Recording close to home—at Brooklyn's Figure 8 Studios—grounded the band, and their process was enriched by working closely with Wax, whose intuition and attention to detail made the familiar unfamiliar and allowed the band to reshape their own contexts. On opener "Moonsea," an unaccompanied Greta begins, "The world is crumbling and I don't have much to say." Take that as a wink and a metonym for the whole album, as her signature vocals are joined by Alex's ascending bassline and Lauren's eddying synths, invoking a loungey take on Broadcast or Stereolab's space-disco experimental pop. There's much more than "not much" to say here, and it's augmented and expanded by experimentation with synth patches, textures, and other recording nuances courtesy of Wax.

As the lineup has solidified into the most permanent expression of full-band Frankie Cosmos, the bandmates have felt more comfortable deviating from their default instruments and contributing bigger-picture ideas to continue pushing the sound forward. The band's closeness and aesthetic consistency freed its members to take more risks, notes Luke: "Everything will sound like Frankie Cosmos because Greta has such a distinct voice (literally and figuratively). We have so much latitude to experiment with the instrumental music, and this time around we really took advantage of that."

Without losing any intimacy of prior albums, Close it Quietly is different, is outer. The album functions as a benign doppelganger, a shadow self of past releases; where other Frankie Cosmos records shine brightest looking inward, Close it Quietly refracts the self into the world, and vice versa, miraculously echoing Thoreau's assertion that "when I reflect, I find that there is other than me."

Reflection—and refraction—isn't tidy. "Flowers don't grow in an organized way/why should I?" Greta sings on "A Joke." Growth isn't linear. Change happens in circles. While recording the album, Alex says, "I closed my eyes a lot." Stand in the sun, listen to Close it Quietly, and do the same.

Since forming at Tufts University in 1992, Guster has become one of the leading indie/alternative bands, releasing eight critically acclaimed studio albums in 25 years. If there were any justice, Guster's underappreciated masterpiece, Lost and Gone Forever, would have elevated the band to superstar status, and the follow-up, Keep It Together, would have been one of the most hyped releases of 2003. Still, the Boston trio has built up one of the most formidable grassroots followings in music through constant touring, powerful live performances, and a level of interaction with its fans that rivals any band in the biz. Longtime fans and new converts won through the band's consistent new music releases will be eager to add Guster's classic Keep It Together to their vinyl collections.

EMMA FRANK

COME BACK

Street Date: 09/06/2019
File Under: Singer/Songwriter
Format: CD

“With her delicately sweet vocals accompanied by simple yet powerful piano, drum beats, and guitar strums, Emma Frank has made ‘I Thought’ into one of 2019’s most gorgeous tracks.”
– Atwood Magazine

If You Like: Charlotte Day Wilson, Laura Misch, Joni Mitchell, Aimee Mann

New York-based singer/songwriter Emma Frank’s music might sound like folk, jazz, even R&B depending on when a listener walks into the song. It’s music that never stays put, full of moving parts, shifting tempos, and winding melodies. Having recently signed to Justin Time/Nettwerk Music Group, Emma Frank’s previous releases have earned her rave reviews – including four stars from DownBeat for her 2018 release ‘Ocean Av’. The evolution continues with her fourth and most ambitious full-length recording to date ‘Come Back’. Says Frank “I’m interested in the intersection between folk song and contemporary jazz. In this collection of songs, we play with odd meters and tempo shifts, and the emotional interest lies partly in improvised orchestration, while staying true to a song form and narrative. Although we recorded with a typical jazz quartet - upright bass, grand piano, and drums - we also added layered guitar, synths, and strings to the arrangements.”

Emma Frank – Voice
Aaron Parks – Piano, Synths
Tommy Crane – Drums
Zack Lober – Bass

Franky Rousseau – Guitars, Synths
Simon Millerd – Trumpet
Chieh-Fan – Viola, Violin

DESCRIPTION:

1998 saw the release of UNREIN and OOMPH!'s first ever chart entry: The German trio made it to #37. DESCRIPTION:

OOMPH! finally arrived on Germany's biggest stages and claimed the throne with über-hits 'Das weiße Licht' and 'Fieber' (feat. Nina Hagen). PLASTIK brought the band hordes of new fans and tons of mainstream media coverage upon its release in 1999. A mature and varied beast of an album that managed to keep a certain rough appeal and thoughtful lyrics despite all the catchiness. The reissue of this classic cut features the OOMPH! remix of 'Fieber' and live versions of 'Unsere Rettung' and 'Gekreuzigt' as a bonus.

Buke & Gase

Riposte

“No other bands sound quite like the duo of Buke & Gase” —NPR Music

Riposte is the debut album from instrument-building duo Buke and Gase (pronounced Byook and Gace). It is being repressed—including a limited edition on orange colored vinyl—to coincide with the recent release of their third album, Scholars. It follows a heavy period of gigging over the past year, both as a headliner and as support for American tours by Steve Albini’s Shellac and djent metal auteurs Animals As Leaders.

They’ve received consistent media support from premium outlets such as NPR Music (an early Tiny Desk Concert), Radiolab (which has devoted two episodes to the group), music vlogger The Needle Drop, and Pitchfork which says their latest album “snaps with the clarity and force of stadium-sized headbangers while maintaining the intimacy of...earlier work.”

On Riposte, the instrument-building, genre defying duo is loud yet folky, polyrhythmic yet melodic. They use the “buke” (a six-string baritone ukulele) and the “gase” (a guitar-bass hybrid), along with a small army of foot percussion, filtering the result through various pedals, amplifiers and homemade inventions while supermelodic vocal lines weave through the beautiful, complex, hook-filed yet sonically explosive musical matter.

The band have built a devoted cult following and become artists’ artists. Previously they have acted as hand-picked support for icons like Laurie Anderson & Lou Reed, Battles, The National, Reggie Watts, Owen Pallett, Swans and Mike Patton’s metal supergroup Tomahawk. (That also serves as a pretty good RIYL of their uncategorizable sound—and a snapshot of a cult fanbase spread across progressive indie rock, art-folk, metal & math rock listeners.)

RIYL: Shellac, Cocteau Twins, Throwing Muses, Animal Collective, Dirty Projectors, Owen Pallett, tUnE-YarDs

A CERTAIN RATIO

Dirty Boy / Shack Up

Street Date: 9/6/19

Mute are excited to announce the release of A Certain Ratio's Dirty Boy / Shack Up remixed, limited edition 12" EP.

This EP includes two brand new mixes of "Dirty Boy". The Chris Massey mix (featuring vocals from Barry Adamson and Tony Wilson) has already been causing a stir on the club scene. MixMag rated it 8/10, saying "Shades of Ian Pooley-style low-slung throbbing bass action with a firecracker style cowbell should please all those with twitchy shoulders, and Barry Adamson's vocal make this one a biggie for those who like their disco with a bit of bite". The "Shack Up" remixes are by Electronic (Bernard Sumner and Johnny Marr) and have been unavailable since their original release in the 1990s.

2019 sees A Certain Ratio celebrate the 40th anniversary of the release of their debut single – the Martin Hannett produced "All Night Party" (Factory Records' first single release) – which was described recently by Record Collector as "a statement of future intentions: to set funk off against nervous angst." They went on to be hailed universally as pioneers of what became known as "punk funk". The band have been touring the UK throughout the year and add festivals and European dates to the mix later this year, with an eye toward US shows in 2020.

Their sound is not easily pigeon holed and their influence can never be understated. The band introduced the avant-garde elements of funk, jazz, electronics, tape loops and technology to the pop song, wrapping it in a post punk aesthetic.

TENDER

CDs out September 6
FEAR OF FALLING ASLEEP

ABOUT:

"Lying awake at night, when it's just me and my mind racing, that's when I drift into the darkest parts of myself," says TENDER's James Cullen. "Until I wrote these songs, I never really knew if anyone else struggled with those same thoughts and fears."

In that sense, TENDER's gripping new album, Fear of Falling Asleep, is a collection of contradictions. It's a record about isolation that fosters connection, a narrative of anxiety that offers reassurance, a chronicle of despair that promises hope. Inspired by the moments that come just before sleep, when silence descends and doubt and fear and desire take over, the album is an unflinchingly honest self-examination, a courageous reckoning with darkness and depression. Along with his musical partner Dan Cobb, Cullen captures the full range of those nightly emotional rollercoasters on the album—the consuming guilt, the crippling loneliness, the directionless drifting—bringing them to life in a seductive blend of electronic grooves, dreamy synths, and washed out guitars.

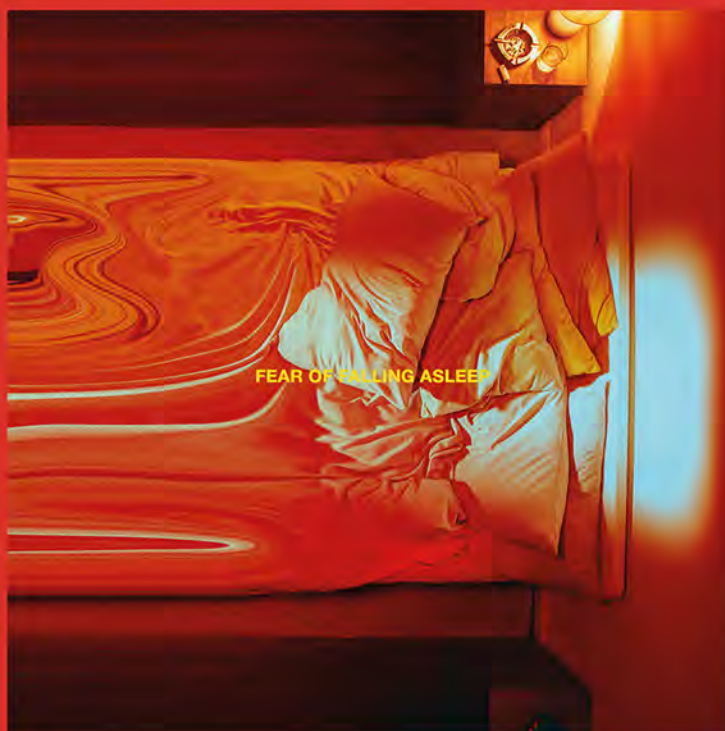

Since its inception, TENDER has specialized in walking an artful line between the personal and the universal. The British duo's acclaimed debut, Modern Addiction, charted the aftermath of a tumultuous breakup, earning rave reviews on both sides of the pond for its stark beauty and soul-baring candor. Stereogum called it "vibrant and entrancing," while Metro hailed it as "stunning," and Exclaim! praised its "lyrical depth and musical texture." Songs from the collection amassed nearly 75 million streams across platforms, and lead single "Nadir" was featured in the soundtrack of the Netflix smash To All The Boys I've Ever Loved.

THE LUMINEERS

4.8 MILLION ALBUMS SOLD

STREAMING:

-OVER 5 BILLION ARTIST STREAMS ACROSS DSPs

-OVER 8 MILLION LISTENERS GENERATING 45 MILLION MONTHLY STREAMS ON SPOTIFY ALONE

Two-time GRAMMY-nominated band The Lumineers are back with their third album, III, a cinematic piece presented as a narrative in three chapters, with each one centering on one main character. III's concept began while the band was writing in the Catskill mountains, where producer Simone Felice works. Decidedly darker than their previous work in concept, but replete with their trademark expressive vocals and dynamic arrangements, III boldly and expertly goes in an artistic direction not yet traveled by the band.

The Lumineers have enjoyed substantial commercial success; their 2012 self-titled debut featuring the hit single "Ho Hey" was certified triple-platinum in 2018, and their sophomore album Cleopatra was certified platinum in the same year after its 2016 release. They've had multiple #1 hits on the Triple A and Alternative radio charts, and have sold out tours across the world; over 300,00 tickets were sold on 2017's Cleopatra world tour. The Lumineers have also supported icons and their musical heroes on the road, including Tom Petty and the Heartbreakers and U2's Joshua Tree tour.

RADIO: The first single "Gloria" is currently holding a #1 chart position at Alternative/Modern Rock, Triple A, Noncom & Americana radio. The single has major support from key Alternative stations such as KROQ and KYSR (Los Angeles), WNYL (New York City), WRFF (Philadelphia), WKQX (Chicago), KITS (San Francisco) KNDD (Seattle) and core AAA stations such as WXRT (Chicago), KBCO (Denver) and KINK (Portland); as well as on the national level with Sirius XM Alt Nation and Spectrum. This makes The Lumineers the most successful indie band in recent years to have their first six consecutive singles go Top 3 or better on both the Alternative & Triple A charts.

PRESS: Performed the single "Gloria" on Colbert and Kimmel, Fallon confirmed for street week. Many print and digital features confirmed including NPR Tiny Desk and Morning Edition. Expect coverage from previous supporters including Saturday Night Live, Rolling Stone, Billboard, Esquire, and many more.

I Made It Out is nothing short of a modern and fresh take of the nostalgic feeling you get when you hear music from the man affectionately known as, the Prince of Gospel. Kee's current offering is Gospel music at its best. Providing music that listeners will enjoy is a guarantee while riding in their car to work, or sitting in the sanctuary of any church during Sunday morning service. Kee, who worked on I MADE IT OUT for approximately two years states, "The entire project is more than just an inspirational piece. I believe it speaks to every area or issue that we deal with on a day-to-day basis. I don't suggest that I have all of the answers, but I can ensure you that this piece of work will inspire, encourage, and uplift you in ways unimaginable." Premier tracks on the project includes "Truly Amazing God", "One God" and the revisited favorite "Colorblind" featuring PJ Morton. The classic title track "I Made It Out" is currently blazing the trail at radio. Kee says "this song represents the testimony that we all have that we didn't get to share in church or on a public stage. Everybody has something that caused him/her to take a deep breath and shout, "I escaped." The Scriptures shares that our deliverance is already planned. 1st Corinthians 10:13 GNT "Every test that you have experienced is the kind that normally comes to people. But God keeps His promise, and He will not allow you to be tested beyond your power to remain firm; at the time you are put to the test, He will give you the strength to endure it, and so provide you with a way out." I believe that when you confess - I MADE IT OUT, you're already on your way and there is a predestined plan working in your favor!" I Made It Out is a music project packed with good news that inspires, encourages, and testifies of the unfailing love of God.

BENEATH THE EYRIE

PIXIES SET TO RELEASE NEW ALBUM
BENEATH THE EYRIE VIA INFECTIOUS / BMG

BIO / PR

Pixies have been acclaimed as the most influential band of the late 80s alt/rock movement, having blazed the trail for artists from Nirvana to Radiohead. Today, a whole new generation of music fans is discovering the band's iconic "loudquietloud" signature sound. Visceral, musically cinematic, otherworldly but strangely familiar and a bit unsettling, welcome to Pixies' brand-new studio album, Beneath the Eyrie, where tales of witches, Daniel Boone, misfits and other characters fit utterly into the band's inherent weirdness. Boasting 12 new songs, the album will be released globally on Friday, September 13 via the group's new record label, Infectious/BMG, available in a wide variety of physical packages.

BELLE AND SEBASTIAN DAYS OF THE BAGNOLD SUMMER

Coming September 13th: Brand new recordings from Glasgow's finest, Belle and Sebastian.

Is releasing a soundtrack a different prospect from releasing a regular album? Would a Belle and Sebastian fan notice the difference if they didn't know? "Everything we do that becomes an album is a big deal for us," says Murdoch. "We're quietly pleased with how the collaboration went, but the truth is that you don't know what's going to happen when it goes out into the world, and people hear it." Martin thinks it is slightly different from other records they've put out. "It's more consistent, probably, than most of our albums. Soundtracks are a deeper cut. They're not a big pop statement." But is making music for film that different than making it for a listener? "The whole thing with music is to make a good moment better," Murdoch says. "Deeper, more thrilling, more heartfelt."

Days of the Bagnold Summer is the latest outside-the-box accomplishment from storied Glasgow 6-piece Belle and Sebastian, comprised of Stuart Murdoch, Stevie Jackson, Sarah Martin, Chris Geddes, Richard Colburn, Dave McGowan, and Bobby Kildea. The last two years have seen them go against conventional practice by releasing a trilogy of EPs to some of the best reviews of their career, and launch and curate their own four-day music festival at sea in The Boaty Weekender, continuing the individualist streak that has characterized them from day one.

THE CULT
SONIC TEMPLE

September 13th

30th Anniversary Reissue - Double LP

Beggars Banquet

SELLING POINTS

- 30th anniversary of classic album that features huge chart topping singles
- Certified platinum in 1990
- Standard reissue is in addition to a limited edition box set and 5-cd set
- Band's current tour billed "a sonic temple" and is in celebration of the anniversary and reissues
- Cut onto two pieces of black vinyl resulting in improved audio
- Worldwide press campaign to celebrate the anniversary
- Out of print for over 20 years!

2019 marks the 30th anniversary of The Cult's seminal album SONIC TEMPLE. On September 13th, Beggars Arkive will reissue the album. Now cut onto two pieces of black vinyl, the audio is improved and contains 16 tracks total, which comprise the original album plus 6 B-sides. In addition to the reissue, a box set and 5-cd set are also being released.

Originally released in 1989, Sonic Temple proved to be a pivotal moment for both band and the wider rock scene. Produced by the legendary Bob Rock, Sonic Temple had four chart-topping singles; "Fire Woman", "Edie (Ciao Baby)", "Sun King" and "Sweet Soul Sister".

In a recent interview about the album, Ian Astbury explained how the band brought together hard rock and indie rock to create the unique, game-changing sounds on Sonic Temple. "We wanted to retain our core DNA as we went deeper into psych and hard rock influences. It was a complete immersion for me into art, film, music, poetry and literature, weaving those influences into what was to become Sonic Temple. The band was becoming more popular. We were in uncharted waters. Most of the bands we had come up with had split up or fallen off. We were accelerating. There was no real time to breathe. We were forming new allegiances and breaking the glass ceiling of 'the indie outsider.'"

The album catapulted The Cult into superstar status and remains their most commercially successful release. It has sold over 1.5 million copies in the US alone, and was declared platinum in 1990. It made it to #10 on the Billboard charts, and the abovementioned songs are all rock-radio staples to this day.

The Cult continues to record and tour and they have released six albums since Sonic Temple, the most recent being Hidden City in 2016. They've been spending 2019 celebrating this album by performing all over the world on a tour they've billed as A Sonic Temple, paying homage to the album.

Nashville-based performer Jeremy Ivey has operated in the background for years, initially performing in bands like Secret Handshake and country-soul group Buffalo Clover with his wife, celebrated country-rock luminary Margo Price. But now Ivey is ready to take a much-deserved step into the spotlight with a debut LP, The Dream and the Dreamer via Anti- Records).

Recorded in a "little bitty house studio" in Nashville and produced by Price, the nine-song album hosts a collection of homespun, deeply introspective tracks. Ivey, who writes prolifically and cites everyone from the Beatles to Neil Young to Leonard Cohen and Bob Dylan as influences.

Unlike his country-soul aesthetic in Buffalo Clover, which disbanded in 2013, Ivey's solo material is much more straightforward yet still travels through a wide spectrum of classic folk, gently frayed psychedelia, pop, and yes, even a bit of Southern rock and Americana. Ivey is invested in his own version of the American Dream—specifically, offering up a melting pot of genres, ideas, and stories. "The best thing I could say is that I'm trying to fill the holes that I can see in the scene," he says. "Whether it be Americana or country or rock or whatever. There's a certain type of song that isn't being written."

"America's greatest living songwriter"

- FADER

"There aren't cults in indie rock anymore. Deep, obsessive followings around smaller artists don't exist like they used to. An exception to this rule is Alex Giannascoli"

- CONSEQUENCE OF SOUND

"Let's state a fact: Alex Giannascoli is one of this generation's best artists"

- VICE

PRESS:

Previous (Sandy) Alex G acclaim from: Billboard, Consequence of Sound, Entertainment Weekly, NPR, Rolling Stone, Esquire, The Fader, Spin, The New Yorker, New York Times, Noisey, Pitchfork, Stereogum, Grantland, Thrasher, i-D, Under The Radar, Crack Magazine, and more.

OVERVIEW:

On House of Sugar, his third full-length for Domino and ninth overall, (Sandy) Alex G inhabits a diverse range of musical and emotional points-of-view (often simultaneously), in turn illuminating the tension that hides in the shadow of desire.

Giannascoli began writing these songs in the fall of 2017, having just finished a tour for House of Sugar's acclaimed predecessor, Rocket, and moved into a new apartment in Philadelphia. Whereas with earlier efforts, such as 2011's self-released Winner or the landmark 2014 release DSU, he'd write numerous songs fairly quickly, with House of Sugar Giannascoli worked at a steadier pace, concentrating on fewer songs and laboring over each one more than before.

Throughout the process Giannascoli worked closely with Jacob Portrait, who mixed both Rocket and its predecessor, 2015's Beach Music, and here helped to balance each of House of Sugar's dense, multi-faceted tracks. As the product of extended focus and planning, House of Sugar emerges as Giannascoli's most meticulous, cohesive album yet: a statement of artistic purpose, showing off his ear for both persistent earworms and shifting textures.

PROMISE KEPT: THE COMPLETE ARTISTS HOUSE RECORDINGS

KEY SELLING POINTS

- The Complete Art Pepper Artists House Sessions.
- Includes the four albums drawn from the sessions remastered and expanded.
- Plus a 5th disc of additional takes.
- Nineteen previously unissued performances.
- Liner notes and photographs by Laurie Pepper.

"Art Pepper had had a brilliant career as a jazz soloist and band leader until the mid-1950s when he started using heroin. After that, incarcerations and treatments in prisons and hospitals, kept him off the stages and out of the studios. He was only able to record sporadically until he got (relatively) sober in Synanon in 1972, and married Laurie—me. Then, in the last ten years of his life, he composed, recorded, and toured more ambitiously than ever before, focused on securing his place among the true jazz greats—where he knew he belonged."

—from the liner notes by Laurie Pepper

Producer John Snyder had always wanted to record Pepper and booked him into a week at the Village Vanguard in New York. At the time, Pepper was under contract to Contemporary Records and label head, Les Koenig, decided he would record the gigs, quashing any notion Snyder had of doing the same. However, Art promised Snyder that he'd record an album for Snyder's label, Artists House, at some point down the road. Together they wound up making four.

Here for the first time are the complete Artists House sessions including 19 previously unissued takes. The original albums drawn from these sessions, So In Love, Artworks, New York Album, and Stardust, have been remastered and expanded with additional takes, some having appeared previously on releases such as The Complete Galaxy Recordings and Artists House—Complete (download only), while some appear here for the first time.

Laurie Pepper has provided liner notes and photographs she took at the sessions. Altogether, this is the most comprehensive window into the Artists House sessions ever likely to be.

"John and Art both kept their promises. John brought Art into the wider world; he put him on the road. Just as he said he would, he brought him to New York and to the Village Vanguard, got his picture in the papers, got him on the radio. From Art, John got his dearest wish. He made these 32 recordings."

GENERAL INFORMATION

ARTIST: Kris Barras Band
TITLE: Light It Up
HOMETOWN: Torquay, Devon, England
GENRE: Blues/Rock
PARENTAL ADVISORY STICKERED: No

BIO:

Rising UK Blues Rock star Kris Barras entered the public eye as a martial arts fighter. By his early 20s, Barras was traveling the world competing in MMA tournaments, compiling a 14-3 record before retiring in 2014. After putting the fight game behind him, Barras once again picked up the guitar, something he had always enjoyed as a child. 2016 saw the self-release of his first album, Lucky 13, followed by extensive touring of the UK and Europe. The following he was building caught the eye of Provogue Records, leading to a recording contract with the label. Provogue released, The Divine and Dirty, to critical acclaim in 2018, leading to four sold out headline tours in the UK, followed by opening tours for Beth Hart, Johnny Lang and Walter Trout.

The rise of Kris Barras continues with the release of his 3rd full-length album, 'Light It Up', available September 13th through Provogue Records. This record sees Kris at his most expressive yet, while stepping out of his comfort zone. "I forced myself to write songs a different way," explains Kris. "The biggest difference for this album was that I didn't pigeonhole myself in any way. I didn't feel like I had to conform. I just sat down and wrote songs I wanted to write, with a sound I wanted to produce, not thinking about genre whatsoever." Produced by Josiah J Manning at Momentum Studios in Plymouth, UK, the album jumps into action right from the beginning by delivering no holds barred emotion. The high octane and euphoric 'Broken Teeth' is about not being afraid of getting your hands dirty, with 'Ignite (Light It Up)' already becoming an insatiable live favorite. Ripping rockers follow with 'Bullet,' 'Wound Up,' and 'Counterfeit People' whilst 'Let The River Run Through You' deals with anxiety, depression and not letting it drown you. The album concludes on Kris' old fighting mantra, 'Pride is Forever'. "It's a trigger phrase, pain is temporary, pride is forever," states Kris. "I've transferred it to my music. Not everyone knows how hard it can be. Something's hurt, something's are tough, but if you push through that, it is only temporary and the glory of that will last with you forever."

Maybe it's the songs, maybe it's the performances, or maybe it's his personal connection to his fans, but Kris Barras is truly resonating with his audience and growing exponentially with each new release. It may be a rocket of a ride so far, but it's only just begun.

Means To Me is the second full-length under Leslie Bear's moniker, Long Beard, and her first since 2015's Sleepwalker. Throughout the record, Leslie explores what constitutes a home—how it extends beyond the physicality of a roof over your head to the comfort of another person. A sense of self, stability or security. Reflections on the past are evident in tracks like album single "Sweetheart", in which Bear considers a past love, where they are now, and her life in relation to theirs.

Bear's sophomore album shows a growth and maturation in sound from her debut. Co-produced with Craig Hendrix (Japanese Breakfast), the record occupies a dreamlike space that weaves between shoegaze-tinged guitars and upbeat, jangly pop. The perfect amalgamation between Bear's ambient-textured loops met with the pristine production and pop stylings of Hendrix's playing can be heard in album standout "Snow Globe." The combined reversal effects, seamless transitions, and heartbeat percussion are the language of Means To Me.

Whether Bear has defined a home for herself is left to wonder, as she leaves us with these final lines before the album crescendos into an explosive distorted instrumental and slowly fades: "driving down through our state lines while you dream, I'm thinking of a name to go by."

HIGHLIGHTS/PRESS

- Touring North America in September around album release, including Hopscotch Festival
- Rhys' career has spanned three decades, two languages, and multiple bands (most notably Super Furry Animals), offshoots, and collaborations (including with Gorillaz).
- Coverage of 2016 album Babelsberg in Rolling Stone, NPR Music, Pitchfork, Paste, DIY, and more

"Rhys has continued juggling absurdity and profundity, albeit with a more delicate touch, as a solo artist."

– Pitchfork

"One of the most consistently creative forces in music of the last 25 years"

– BrooklynVegan

Pang! is a futuristic psychedelic world pop album, a cross-cultural collaboration between Welsh musician and Super Furry Animals frontman Gruff Rhys and South African electronic producer Muzi. Having met while recording the track "Vessels" for Damon Albarn's world music collective Africa Express, Rhys and Muzi decided to continue working on transcontinental music projects together, first on a remix of Rhys' song "Bae Bae Bae" and eventually on a Gruff Rhys solo album recorded in Wales and produced and mixed by Muzi in both Cardiff and Johannesburg which, at Muzi's request, consists of Welsh-language songs (with bits in Zulu).

As Rhys recalls, "Sometimes like on Eli Haul, [Muzi] would leave songs alone - often simplifying them further. On occasion he would jump to the mic and join in with some vocals. Some songs he would take a loop of a particularly interesting section, build a beat and rework the song from scratch, and by the song Ôl Bys / Nodau Clust - which we mixed by coincidence following a conversation about Daft Punk and industrial music - Muzi completely takes over, scrapping my bad bossa guitars, only retaining the original's vocals. In that sense it's a kind of remix album where adventure is favoured over predictability and where the radical remixes are the finished articles. Pang!"

Rhys also drew inspiration for Pang! from a trip to Paisley Park on a tour for his 2018 solo record Babelsberg: "visiting the gloss of Prince's democratic music palace confirmed in me that my move into day-glo processed pop with this record was justified and in particular, albums like Around the World in a Day (and in particular the title track) became a reference point for attempting to make psychedelically joyful, internationalist and deeply personal digital pop music."

Native Son is an American drama film, directed by Rashid Johnson, based upon the famous novel of the same name by Richard Wright. Adapted for the 21st Century, the film tells the story of 20-year-old Bigger Thomas, an African American youth living in utter poverty in a poor area on Chicago's South Side. The film was released by HBO on January 24th, 2019.

The score to Native Son was composed by the duo Kyle Dixon and Michael Stein, best known for their score to Stranger Things and as members of the electronic band S U R V I V E. With their score to Native Son, Dixon and Stein have again produced a masterclass of electronic music that shifts between eerie dread and encroaching doom to the relentless beats of pursuit and evasion. The vinyl release features selections of their score pressed on black vinyl in a dress jacket.
