wilco ode to joy

street date: October 4

Ode to Joy – the 11th studio album from the pioneering Chicago rock band Wilco – will be released Oct. 4 via dBpm Records. The album features 11 new songs written and produced by Jeff Tweedy and recorded by Wilco at the bands' own Chicago studio dubbed The Loft.

"The record is, in a weird way, an ode; this terrible stuff is happening, this deepening sense of creeping authoritarianism that weighs on everybody's psyche on a daily basis, and you're allowed to feel a lot of things at once. And one thing that is worth feeling, that is worth fighting for, is your freedom to still have joy even though things are going to shit." - Jeff Tweedy

Marketing Highlights:

- First new studio recording by the legendary Chicago band in three years.
- Featuring the classic Wilco lineup: Jeff Tweedy (vocals/guitar), Nels Cline (guitar), Pat Sansone (guitar/keyboards), Glenn Kotche (drums/percussion), Mikael Jorgensen (keyboards) and John Stirratt (bass).
- Extensive year-long North America and European touring, commencing September 2019.
- Aggressive ADA sponsored radio campaign throughout USA. First single "Love Is Everywhere (Beware)" shipped to radio on July 16.
- Numerous live band television and radio appearance during the Fall Tour. Dates to be announced soon.

FLYING COLORS

THIRD DEGREE

GENERAL INFORMATION

ARTIST: Flying Colors
TITLE: Third Degree
HOMETOWN: New York, NY
GENRE: Rock / Prog
PARENTAL ADVISORY STICKERED: No

BIO

In chemistry, when certain galvanizing elements come together, they become quite explosive. In music, when certain galvanizing artists come together, they become Flying Colors. In fact, whenever the five gentlemen who encompass Flying Colors - guitarist Steve Morse, drummer Mike Portnoy, keyboardist/vocalist Neal Morse, bassist Dave LaRue, and powerhouse vocalist and songwriter Casey McPherson are able to conjoin their collective talents, the result is a sweet sonic bouillabaisse that reflects where their inherent mastery of melody intersects with top-shelf progressive musicianship.

Flying Colors now soar to even loftier heights with Third Degree, their third studio album in a decade that's set for release on October 4, 2019 via Music Theories Recordings. Produced by longtime band associate Rich Mouser, Third Degree builds upon the genre-bending momentum of 2012's self-titled Flying Colors and the aural template ascension of 2014's Second Nature. "There's a lot of ear candy sprinkled throughout every song," observes Mike Portnoy, "and each one takes you on a little journey. As albums go, Third Degree is a complete piece that I don't think ever overstays its welcome. I think it's an enjoyable ride from start to finish."

Third Degree continues to build upon the deep-rooted musical connection the members of Flying Colors established on their first two boundary-stretching albums. "There's a real special chemistry between the five of us," Portnoy confirms. "We keep getting better and better as we get more comfortable and more familiar with each other, and the music itself keeps getting more and more mature." Adds Steve Morse, "This one, dare I say it, explores new ground for the band. One of my favorites, 'Geronimo,' has an upbeat, jazzy, heavy, melodic feel all at once. We just do what makes us smile and sounds good, instead of wondering how critics or program directors will like it. It makes for the best music!"

"Our mission statement when we came together is still the same now," Portnoy affirms. "It's the same five guys with extremely different musical personalities and backgrounds coming together into a giant melting pot where it all comes out on the other end with music that's accessible, melodic, deep, and colorful. That's always been the goal of this band, and so far, I think we're three for three."

RADIO TARIFA Rumba Argelina

Release Date: 10/04/19

- ★ Remastered
- ★ CD Format contains 16 page booklet
- ★ 1st Time Ever On Vinyl
- ★ 180g Heavyweight Double Vinyl

RADIO TARIFA's classic breakthrough debut album Rumba Argelina, originally released on World Circuit in 1996, is regarded as a world fusion classic. Founded in the early 90's, RADIO TARIFA combined Flamenco, Arab-Andalusian music, Arabian music, Moorish music and other influences from the Mediterranean and the Caribbean. The band's name is taken from Cape Tarifa, the southernmost tip of Spain and closest European point to Africa, where the local radio receives sounds from across the straits. An irresistible fusion of exotic melodies, it kicks in with the pattering of percussion and drums, undulating pipes and funky guitars, before the smoky flamenco-esque rumba voice of Escoriza grabs you and never lets go. The album has been remastered specially for this first ever LP release.

TOXIC HOLOCAUST mutated into existence in 1999, when Joel Grind merged his love for classic punk and metal into his ideal band. Like his influences

- Bathory, Venom, English Dogs, Possessed, Broken Bones - TOXIC HOLOCAUST featured blazing riffs, gravel-throated vocals, and a deadly fixation on the evil in man and a post-apocalyptic world. Grind wrapped all of these elements up with a DIY attitude..

IT'S SUCH A GOOD FEELING

The best of MISTER ROGERS[®]

Mister Rogers' Neighborhood premiered on television over five decades ago. While to some it seems like just yesterday when it was brand new, it's heartening to know how much it has been a part of the lives of countless children and adults who experienced and learned from the show over the decades.

While its staying power never lapsed, Academy[®]- and Grammy[®]-winning director Morgan Neville's 2018 documentary, Won't You Be My Neighbor?, reawakened our love for Fred Rogers, and introduced a new generation to him. With the upcoming November release of A Beautiful Day In The Neighborhood (starring Tom Hanks as Fred Rogers), the beloved Mister Rogers and his neighborhood will once again be front and center in the hearts, minds, and ears of everyone.

It's Such A Good Feeling: The Best Of Mister Rogers collects 23 songs from the beloved broadcaster (backed by long-time collaborator and pianist Johnny Costa, Carl McViker on bass, and percussionist Bobby Rawsthorne). Containing classics like "Won't You Be My Neighbor," "You Are Special," and the title track, this release also features five previously unissued tracks including the show's original closer, "Tomorrow."

CD packaging contains photos, an introductory note from Neville, and an essay from Pittsburgh television critic (and long-time USA Today contributor) Robert Bianco.

Two weeks after the release of It's Such A Good Feeling, four digital-only album releases from Mister Rogers will also be made available: Bedtime, You're Growing, You Are Special, and Coming And Going.

So, hop on the trolley for the Land Of Make Believe, because it really is such a good feeling.

“Daily Battles” was written by Thom Yorke (Radiohead, Atoms For Peace) for “Motherless Brooklyn” the film directed, written by, produced by and starring Edward Norton. The film features two versions of the song, each performed by musical icons of modern music. Thom Yorke along with Flea (Red Hot Chili Peppers, Atoms For Peace) performs a sparse and emotionally stunning version of the song. The other version of “Daily Battles” was arranged and performed by jazz trumpet icon Wynton Marsalis, who, along with his hand-picked quintet of heavy-hitter-jazz stalwarts delivers an instant jazz standard version of the song that conjures images of the 1950’s-era gin-soaked Harlem jazz club seen in the film.

JOHNNY COSTA PLAYS MISTER ROGERS' NEIGHBORHOOD

When Mister Rogers' Neighborhood premiered in the 1960s, no one would have expected it to have the impact it continues to have to this day. One of the things that made it special, was the music. Host and songwriter Fred Rogers found his perfect accompanist in pianist Johnny Costa. The performances, flourishes and embellishments Costa and the band made during the show (all performed live) not only enhanced the experience, they taught viewers something else—they taught them about jazz.

In 1986, Rogers and Costa teamed for the last record released on Mister Rogers' Neighborhood Records: Johnny Costa Plays Mister Rogers' Neighborhood Jazz. Costa, Carl McViker on bass, and percussionist Bobby Rawsthorne, take an instrumental journey through 13 of Rogers' classic songs, retaining their original compositional intent, but breathing new life into them. The release has been out of print for decades, fetching top dollar on the collector's markets. It returns for the first time on CD and Digital.

Academy®- and Grammy®-winning director Morgan Neville (whose 2018 documentary, Won't You Be My Neighbor?, reawakened our love for Fred Rogers) contributes an introduction in the packaging, while Musoscribe's Bill Kopp traces Costa's history and work on the program in an informative essay.

With the upcoming November release of A Beautiful Day In The Neighborhood (starring Tom Hanks as Fred Rogers), the beloved Mister Rogers and his neighborhood will once again be front and center in the hearts, minds, and ears of everyone. This is the perfect time to dig deeper into the sounds that formed

BLOOD ORANGE

ANGEL'S PULSE

DO NOT ANNOUNCE UNTIL SEPTEMBER 17TH

OVERVIEW

My new record is called Angel's Pulse & I performed, produced and mixed the entire thing myself. I'm calling it a mixtape.

I have a habit through the years of making records that I just give to friends, or on tape to people on the street, or no one. Usually this material is made directly after the album I've just put out. Somewhat of an epilogue to the thing I've made before. This time...I decided to release it.

I put as much work and care into it as I do with the albums I've released, but for some reason trained myself into not releasing things the rate at which I make them. I'm older now though, and life is unpredictable and terrifying... so here you go mates.

Hope you enjoy. Catch you soon.

Devonté aka Blood Orange

SUPER SONGS OF BIG MOUTH VOLUME ONE

MUSIC FROM THE NETFLIX ORIGINAL SERIES - BIG MOUTH SUPER SONGS OF BIG MOUTH VOL. 1 SET TO BE RELEASED VIA BMG

QUOTES

"The show has received acclaim for its honest and hilarious commentary on growing up, achieved through the genius of Mark Rivers's songs and "surreal musical numbers."

—SOUNDTRACK MUSIC ASSOCIATES

"(Maya) Rudolph even gets to belt out musical numbers and does it with so much gusto, it's like she's channeling the rage and power of the entire feminist movement. Just listen to her sing an "I Will Survive"-style body positivity anthem... and try to do anything other than bow down to that monstress." —VULTURE

"The Netflix animated series has been lauded for promoting acceptance of all the awkward ways people mature, and the songs... are the epitome of showing that no one is ever alone in their experience." —INDIEWIRE

"The raunchy and heartfelt series centers on teenage friends who find their lives turned upside down by the good, the bad and the ugly of puberty—and as one might expect, BIG MOUTH has given [Mark] Rivers the opportunity to craft songs you might not hear anywhere else." —DEADLINE

"Leaning heavily on songwriter Mark Rivers, the BIG MOUTH team tackled a variety of styles — including rock, flamenco, jazz, and pop — to honor the nuance of buying bras and wrestling with your sexuality." —THRILLIST

"The show is about puberty and adolescence and the stakes feel incredibly high in adolescents. And sometimes the best way to express high emotional moments is through a song." —VARIETY

"The song ("Totally Gay") most definitely stays a Score It Magazine favourite: we are huge Queen fans and we cannot resist a fake Queen song that is so masterfully written, produced and sung." —SCORE IT MAGAZINE

BIO

The band, consisting of two sets of brothers, have been steadily building a solid live following and were the first unsigned band since Arctic Monkeys to sell out their local venue the Sheffield Leadmill. With support from the likes of Steve Lamacq, Annie Mac, Mistajam & Huw Stephens, this is a young band following in the great tradition of guitar groups from their area. THE SHERLOCKS have drawn obvious comparisons from their influencers (The Jam, The Clash, Arctic Monkeys) but this is a band with unquenchable ambition intending to create their own unique sound and already captivating new audiences. THE SHERLOCKS have been earning excellent live reviews up & down the country after selling out multiple venues (including Sheffield's Foundry & Manchester's Albert Hall) and their fanbase is going from strength to strength with their last singles "Will You Be There" & "Was It Really Worth It?" both reaching No. 1 in the Vinyl single charts in the UK, a new generation discovering the adrenalinizing rush of rock'n'roll.

HEADLINING THE SIRIUSXM COFFEE HOUSE TOUR THAT LAUNCHES OCTOBER 8th IN WEST HOLLYWOOD, CA AT THE TROUBADOUR

The album-opening title track of Here, Right Now, Joshua Radin's eighth release and Nettwerk Music Group debut, is all about embracing the moment. Produced by Tony Berg with an array of guest vocalists and musicians, including Berg's daughter Z Berg, Maria Taylor, Alex Greenwald (Phantom Planet) and Danny Burke, Here, Right Now is comprised of seven original tracks and two covers (Tom Petty's "I Won't Back Down" and The Rolling Stones' "She Smiled Sweetly") that tackle themes of broken relationships, rescue, friendship and self-determination, all delivered with Radin's silvery, intimate tenor.

During the course of his career, Radin has shared stages with Ed Sheeran, Sara Bareilles, Ingrid Michaelson, Sheryl Crow, Tori Amos, Imogen Heap and Irish band The Script. He's played to sold-out audiences in theatres across the globe, from North America to the UK and Europe to China and Australia. He's sold three-quarters of a million albums and two million singles, racked up 350+ Million Spotify streams and over 500+ Million plays on Pandora, and scored a Gold record in the US and No. 2 UK hit with "I'd Rather Be With You." One of the most licensed artists ever, Radin's music has played in over 150 TV shows, commercials and films, including his song "Brand New Day" being selected by Michelle Obama and Dr. Jill Biden as the soundtrack to a commercial made for the troops. He's appeared multiple times on various chat-shows (Ellen, The Tonight Show, Jimmy Kimmel Live, Conan, Today Show) and even performed at mega-fan Ellen DeGeneres' nuptials with Portia DeRossi at Ellen's request.

In celebration of the new album, Radin will team up with iconic indie duo The Weepies for a fall tour presented by SiriusXM's Coffee House with special guest Lily Kershaw. The tour kicks off with two shows on October 8th and 9th at the legendary Troubadour in West Hollywood, CA. FEET

What's Inside Is More Than Just Ham, produced by Cam Blackwood (Jamie T, London Grammar, Billie Marten. George Ezra) is FEET's first studio album. The band has previously released a 10" "English Weather" picture disc, available in US and UK stores. FEET's next single, "Ad Blue" will premiere 24 April.

FEET have had quite the year. George (Jeep), Oli, Harry, Callum & (newcomer) Ben formed in Coventry at University in 2017. The five-piece shot out of the traps at a pace with their attention grabbing first single "Petty Thieving." Whilst all juggling their final years at uni in Coventry, the band hit the road for the long hot summer of 2018, travelling the length and breadth of the UK in a tiny hatchback, for a host of key festival appearances (including Field Day, Truck, Electric Fields, Tramlines and many more), headline shows of their own, and more supports with their old friend Declan McKenna.

PRESS HIGHLIGHTS:

- Included in NME's 100 Essential New Artists for 2019.
 - "Fidgety and all-over-the-shop in the best possible way, FEET are always, er, one step ahead of your expectations"
 - "Over just three singles, Feet have set a precedent for the unexpected"
- "Wonky Britpop for a new gen" – NME
- "English Weather brings a sunny disposition to the inevitably gloomy climes, and continues to establish the fivesome as one of the most deservedly hyped bands around." – THE LINE OF BEST FIT
- "Uni is over and Feet are graduating in style. Morphing that fiery brand of in your face breakdowns with an unstoppable knack for sizzling Indie melody, they have the potential to not only shake rooms up and down the country but soundtrack daytime radio at the same time." – DORK MAGAZINE
- "Following last year's astonishing 'Petty Thieving', the Coventry indie crew show there's more where that came from..." – SUNDAY TIMES CULTURE
- "Dressed like extras from Kevin and Perry Go Large and armed with the kind of natty moves that would get you punched by a sports bro in under three seconds, they're an absolute gem from start to finish." – DIY MAG
- "FEET prove once again why they are one of the most exciting bands around at the moment." – POP MATTERS
- "Pure piece of indie gold." – EARMILK

RITUALS OF MINE

SLEEPER HOLD

SLEEPER HOLD, the new EP from Los Angeles-based electronic and alt-R&B duo Rituals of Mine, is as tense and captivating as its name suggests. Songwriter and vocalist Terra Lopez began writing the songs that would eventually inhabit the EP, during one of the most harrowing and self reflective times in her life. "In 2016 my father committed suicide, and six months later my best friend died in an accident," recalls Lopez. "Both of those losses were incredibly devastating, and it was massive for me because these two people who were such important figures in my life were gone. These new songs all derived from the past three and a half years of my life and what those losses made me confront." Lopez began processing her grief through songwriting, and gradually faced her past traumas. Lopez flew from California to Florida to work with her longtime collaborator and producer Wes Jones, and began developing a brooding sound that would match the emotional intensity of her writing. Over the course of a few months the two would craft some of the project's most cavernous and vulnerable songs to date.

"BURST," "HEAVYWEIGHT," and "BAD NEWS" are some of the first songs Lopez wrote after feeling empowered to be more honest with herself. The sudden and tragic changes in her life forced Lopez to reconcile with old pains. The EP's nightmarish yet self-assured first single "BURST" is Lopez processing her past traumas and demanding space that she has lived without for so long. "I am starting to realize that my story, my life is worth writing about, so this track is the first step." Lopez explained about the track. "BURST" is about reclaiming my story and showing up for myself." The track's haunting and staccato instrumental is in stark contrast with Lopez's confident and melodic vocal delivery. Having the intimate space of a studio, occupied by only her and a producer, meant that Lopez could write from the heart in a way that didn't feel possible when there were more people in the room. "This new material is very direct and focused on what I want to express with things I've held in for so long." says Lopez. "It's finally me addressing all of that trauma because I finally had the space to do so."

In the three years since the release of their minimalist debut, Devoted, Lopez's music has been praised within the indie music community and Rituals of Mine has shared the stage with acts like Garbage, Tricky, Built to Spill, DEFTONES, and Le Butcherettes. Lopez hopes that with the expanded sound of her new EP, Rituals of Mine will reach new audiences, inspiring more listeners to confront and overcome their own struggles.

OVERVIEW

Busy Signal is one of the hottest names in reggae and dancehall. He's a proven hit-maker with a long and growing list of street anthems to his name. Beginning mid-2018 Busy and long-time collaborator Dameon Gayle have been heating things up with a consistently strong offering of singles via YouTube. These include recent hits "Stay So" (32m), "One Way" (17m) and "Dolla Van" (4m), each making major impact on the streets of New York, London, Nairobi and Kingston.

Busy Signal is one of Jamaica's most versatile artists, stretching the limits of reggae and dancehall throughout his career, with unbeatable vocal flow, quick witted lyrics and a gift for melody. He has delivered dancehall, roots and one drop reggae hits as well as genre bending standouts like "Sports Day (Everybody Move)," which was featured in a commercial campaign for LG mobile phones. As a 'side artist,' Busy has distinguished himself on hits like Major Lazer's "Watch Out For This (Bumaye)" which has further boosted his global audience with millions of monthly streams on the song and video.

Busy Signal is back with his first full-length album since Reggae Music Again from 2012.

The 17 songs on the album highlight the creative range and hit-making ability of this multi-talented recording artist.

ANOXIA TO THE LIONS

ANOXIA IS BACK WITH THEIR SOPHOMORE FULL LENGTH EFFORT „TO THE LIONS“.

AnoxiA has spent the time since the release of their previous full-length, the critically acclaimed „A Lapdance For The Devil“, partially on the road and partially in rehearsal and the studio, crafting the 9 songs that would eventually become „TO THE LIONS“. The musical direction on „TO THE LIONS“ is old school heavy metal - melodic, yet hardhitting and thrashy at times. At times even a modern twist sneaks in. The songs are carved around strong riffing a wide array of vocal variation, supporting the musical landscapes.

AnoxiA is a well-established act on the Danish underground live metal scene, their longevity dating back 20+ years. Hell bent on having fun during performance, AnoxiA approaches any gig fully charged, sincerely convinced that in order for the audience to enjoy, the band must enjoy.

For fans of Iron Maiden, Slayer & Judas Priest

TRANSPORT LEAGUE

A MILLION VOLT SCREAM

IT DOUBTLESSLY TAKES A LOT OF MENTAL STRENGTH TO STAY ON YOUR CHOSEN PATH, DESPITE ALL THE IMPONDERABLES THAT THE MUSIC INDUSTRY ENTAILS. TRANSPORT LEAGUE FROM SWEDEN ARE A PRIME EXAMPLE OF DETERMINATION AND PERSEVERANCE.

As the critics' faves, they have been praised to the skies, as a down-to-earth band they've always remained in tune with the times and close to their fans, while their rhythmic, powerful and stylistically diverse heavy metal has left an impressive mark on the international hard'n'heavy scene. Transport League are set to launch another artistic landmark on September 6th 2019, when the band are scheduled to release their new album A MILLION VOLT SCREAM thru MIGHTY MUSIC before going on to present their latest material live on stage with their familiar merciless energy. That's when everybody will understand why the media like to refer to the group's style by the album title of its 2014 release: BOOGIE FROM HELL!

About twenty years after the arrival of their debut STALLION SHOWCASE, Transport League are ready to present A MILLION VOLT SCREAM – not only their eight album to date but further evidence of their inexhaustible creative power. The scheduled tour in autumn 2019 is certain to reinforce this positive impression.

- Brand new 8th album from the Swedish kings of boogie Transport League. A band that has inspired tons of bands including Michael Poulsen from Volbeat, who is a big fan
- A Million Volt Scream is produced by Roberto Laghi (In Flames, Entombed AD, Raised Fist, Sonic Syndicate, Mustasch, Hardcore Superstar etc), who also mixed the album

DENNER'S INFERNO

FOUNTAIN OF GRACE

"FOUNTAIN OF GRACE" IS THE NEW EP RELEASE FROM MERCYFUL FATE GUITARIST MICHAEL DENNER AND HIS NEW BAND DENNER'S INFERNO.

Denner's Inferno was created in the ashes of his former band Trickbag in 2018. Mainly to transform the band from 70's progressive hardrock to a more current vibe with new original songs and a new line up. Michael Denner comments: After a lot of thoughts around what to do next I ended up doing what turned up to be the exact right move towards the music style I really love ; 70's inspired Heavy Rock. The choice of team for this one came very natural. Bjarne and Flemming I've known for decades and exactly what they are capable to do with the rhythm section, and a good vibe to go with it. And by introduction from Mighty Music's Michael H. Andersen I found the golden voice of Chandler Mogel. A New Yorker with deep roots in the same music style as I love to do. This time I chose a selection of songs I wrote with good people during the last few years and a few obscure covers of songs which have made an impact on my taste in music since my journey as a heavy rock guitarist started many years ago now. This album is for the listeners who like their music hard and heavy with strong beautiful vocals and some No Nonsense playing to back it up.

Enjoy !!!!!!"

The EP is released in 500 limited copies black 12" vinyl and 500 limited edition jewelcase CDs. The title track "Fountain Of Grace" will be released as single and music video on the 26th of July and upcoming album "In Amber" to be released in November worldwide through Mighty Music.

MIKE TRAMP

STRAY FROM THE FLOCK

MIKE TRAMP HAS SPENT A SIGNIFICANT PORTION OF THE LAST TWENTY YEARS STUDIOUSLY CARVING OUT A SOLID SOLO CAREER FOR HIMSELF AS A SINGER/SONGWRITER.

Having long turned his back on the temptation to dwell on former arena-filling glories and extremely comfortable with his chosen path, it matters not to the Dane these days, whether he's playing a small café in some far flung town in France or a large outdoor Summer festival in his native Denmark. Mike Tramp is happy being Mike Tramp.

"I picked up the guitar and the songs just started flying out of me. I thought 'fuck! There's an album that wants to come out of here!'", Tramp laughs. Mike will, of course, be touring in support of "Stray From The Flock", but as with his previous solo excursions there won't be any explosions, moving drum risers or confetti bombs on stage. There will just be a guy standing in the middle being the real deal. That guy is Mike Tramp."

DESCRIPTION:

„The Sound of Scars feels like such a monumental moment in Life of Agony’s story. On one hand, we’ve come full circle, continuing the concept of our 1993 debut River Runs Red, and on the other hand, we’ve reached new heights with the raw power of the sound and songwriting. We really cannot wait for fans to sink their teeth into this beast and take this emotional journey with us. This record is a monster.“

-Alan Robert, Life of Agony

Life Of Agony emerged from the New York music scene in the early ,90s with one of the most distinctive sounds in its genre. Best known for its 1993 metal/crossover debut River Runs Red, the band instantly built a die-hard, cult following. For over two decades, the group toured relentlessly all over the world, sharing stages with the biggest names in rock, including Metallica, Black Sabbath, Ozzy Osbourne, Foo Fighters, and The Red Hot Chili Peppers. After the much-praised Ugly (1995), LOA opted for a highly energetic alternative rock approach on Soul Searching Sun (1997) and Broken Valley (2005) – the latter produced by Greg Fidelman (Slipknot, Metallica). Life of Agony has sold over one million albums to date.

This Fall, the Hard rock and crossover metal veterans return with their hard-hitting, emotional concept album The Sound of Scars, that will continue the haunting narrative from the band’s groundbreaking 1993 debut River Runs Red, which Rolling Stone hailed as “One of the greatest metal albums of all time.” Produced by Sylvia Massy (Tool, System of a Down), whose work has received multiple Grammy Awards and nominations, along with LOA’s Joey Z (with mixing duties helmed by Massy), have tapped esteemed engineer Howie Weinberg (Nirvana, Soundgarden) to master the band’s so catchy, personal and heavy record. In support of their brand new album, Life of Agony featuring vocalist Mina Caputo, guitarist Joey Z, bassist Alan Robert, and drummer Veronica Bellino, will embark on an extensive S.O.S WORLD TOUR starting this Fall, showcasing their incredible live energy all over the globe!

ART ALEXAKIS

SUN SONGS

ART ALEXAKIS of Everclear Set To Release
Debut Solo Album SUN SONGS via The End/BMG

QUOTES

"I'm pushing my ability and pushing the envelope, and having fun at the same time. I've always wanted to do something like this." - ART ALEXAKIS

BIO

Some 25 years into his career as a recording artist, ART ALEXAKIS—best-known as the singer-guitarist and sole songwriter behind the iconic alt-rock outfit EVERCLEAR—has started a new chapter in his remarkably prolific career, now as a solo artist.

Writing songs and performing all instruments on his own, Alexakis recently began working on compositions that will comprise his first-ever solo album, which he intends to unveil in 2019 via The End Records/BMG.

A key driver for Alexakis' solo initiative has been the work/rehearsal/recording space he recently constructed near his home in Southern California. The singer-guitarist—who's also a husband and father—enjoys an inspiring work-life balance that allows him to conveniently create whenever he likes, quickly shifting back and forth between the studio and home. He uses his studio HQ—which is also Everclear's rehearsal space—to frequently collaborate with co-producer/engineer Stuart Schenk (Invisible Stars), who is helping Alexakis develop his still-forming solo material.

For several years Alexakis has been performing solo shows, dubbed "Songs and Stories," where the singer-songwriter plays stripped-down acoustic versions of past favorites, while also offering the audiences tales and anecdotes pertaining to those compositions. He says he hopes to showcase new solo material at upcoming acoustic shows, but future live solo performances may expand upon that concept, with backing musicians potentially helping Alexakis recreate the diverse sounds he's now exploring as a solo artist.

Creating outside of the Everclear realm also gives Alexakis the chance to explore styles and sounds that don't necessarily work for his band. His solo work will continue to push the boundaries of what you can expect from an Art Alexakis composition, as no direction or source of inspiration is really off the table. He cites everything from the Hamilton soundtrack to the great acoustic singer-songwriters as influences for his own writing.

“Dost Fear, my dear? the moon shines bright: Hurrah! the dead ride fast by night!”

Aptly entitled “For The Dead Travel Fast” after German gothic poet Gottfried August Bürger, KADAVAR’s doomed fifth record is a perilous journey into the land of the dead, a foray into the bleakest corners of our minds. A heavy, slow-paced, throbbing force of guitar, bass and drums, preciously enriched by spooky synths and a brooding narrative reminiscent of the Victorian death-cult. Beware, this is KADAVAR gone pitch-black! Think HAWKWIND with old PINK FLOYD melodies, eerily sung to you from the grave. Just like the album cover, taken in front of Dracula’s alleged crib in Transylvania, mysterious Castle Bran, the whole album is drenched in superstition, Romanian folklore and the mysterious ways of our psyche. Self-recorded and self-produced, “For The Dead Travel Fast” is KADAVAR’s very own death cult, an album at the same time uncanny and extremely powerful.

Two Hands, a completely new, fully-realized, 10-song album by Big Thief, will arrive just five months after their breakthrough U.F.O.F., one of the most acclaimed albums of 2019.

In sharp contrast to the wet environment of the U.F.O.F. session, Two Hands had to be completely different—an album about the earth and the bones beneath it. The songs were recorded live with almost no overdubs. All but two songs feature entirely live vocal takes, leaving Adrienne's voice suspended above the mix in dry air, raw and vulnerable as ever. Where U.F.O.F. layered mysterious sounds and effects for levitation, Two Hands grounds itself on dried-out, cracked desert dirt.

Anybody who has borne witness to Big Thief in the wild will find songs they recognize here. Much of the album's tracks ("The Toy", "Those Girls", "Shoulders", "Not", "Cut My Hair") have been live staples for years. Two Hands has the songs that I'm the most proud of; I can imagine myself singing them when I'm old," says singer/songwriter Adrienne Lenker.

With raw power, intimacy, and honor, Two Hands folds itself gracefully into Big Thief's impressive discography. This body of work grows deeper and more inspiring with each new album.

KURT VILE CHILDISH PRODIGY (COLORED VINYL + 7")

Reissued with the original 7" for the first time since its original pressing, and printed on colored vinyl for the first time ever, Kurt Vile's Matador debut Childish Prodigy is back this October.

Childish Prodigy is the complete album that KV's been keeping hidden up his plaid sleeve. He gives us nine absolutely realized cuts (most by hometown master-engineer Jeff Zeigler) with an appropriate level of fidelity that, in a just world, would find the same warm welcome on FM radio that he's received this year from those with their ears to the underground.

Tunes like "Hunchback" and "Inside Looking Out" show the absolute power the Violators hold. It's Mike Zanghi dominating his thunder kit on the former, and Michael Johnson banging in a primitive caveman thud on the latter. These tracks dig in and drive hard like Crazy Horse truckin' along the Autobahn. Kurt's same steady hands guide the pretty-sounding and vulnerable route of "Overnite Religion" and "Blackberry Song". The paranoid monologue of "Dead Alive", and the tense, though sunny "Amplifier" should shame all the lightweight singer-song-writer types into pawning Lucille and patching things up with their fathers.

And then there's the fan-favorite "Freak Train". This one's got all the KV moves... A pounding and relentless rhythm (this time supplied by Roland 707), a web of electric-finger-picking, chiming swells of feedback by Kurt and Adam Granduciel, and a boss sax solo coaxed from the lungs of Jesse Trbovich. It's a real propulsive romp through some mutant-filled regional rail network in Vile's mind.

Let the lazy scribes speculate on Kurt's influences. Bruce, Suicide, Neil, Spacemen, Patton, Velvets, dozens of under-song loners with guitars, whoever. But KV doesn't so much borrow the moves of his elders as he does swallow them up and spit them back as if they were his all along. Listen to him lead the Violators through "Monkey" by the Dim Stars for proof. Each one of these tunes sounded classic the day it was committed to tape. Classic.

KIM GORDON NO HOME RECORD

Coming October 11th: the debut solo record from Kim Gordon.

With a career spanning nearly four decades, Kim Gordon is one of the most prolific and visionary artists working today. A co-founder of the legendary Sonic Youth, Gordon has performed all over the world, collaborating with many of music's most exciting figures including Tony Conrad, Ikue Mori, Julie Cafritz and Stephen Malkmus. Most recently, Gordon has been hitting the road with Body/Head, her spellbinding partnership with artist and musician Bill Nace. Despite the exhaustive nature of her résumé, the most reliable aspect of Gordon's music may be its resistance to formula. Songs discover themselves as they unspool, each one performing a test of the medium's possibilities and limits. Her command is astonishing, but Gordon's artistic curiosity remains the guiding force behind her music.

It makes sense that this "American idea" (as Gordon says on the agitated rock track "Air BnB") of purchasing utopia permeates the record, as no place is this phenomenon more apparent than Los Angeles, where Gordon was born and recently returned to after several lifetimes on the east coast. It was a move precipitated by a number of seismic shifts in her personal life and undoubtedly plays a role in No Home Record's fascination with transience. The album opens with the restless "Sketch Artist," where Gordon sings about "dreaming in a tent" as the music shutters and skips like scenery through a car window. "Even Earthquake," perhaps the record's most straightforward track embodies this mood; Gordon's voice wavering like watercolor: "If I could cry and shake for you / I'd lay awake for you / I got sand in my heart for you," guitar strokes blending into one another as they bleed out across an unstable page. Front to back, No Home Record is an expert operation in the uncanny. You don't simply listen to Gordon's music; you experience it.

CAN

(Limited Edition Green Vinyl)

Street Date: 10/11/19

Mute and Can are excited to announce the repress of Ege Bamyasi on limited edition green vinyl.

Can was founded in 1968 by Irmin Schmidt, Holger Czukay, Michael Karoli and Jaki Liebezeit who formed a group which would utilise and transcend all boundaries of ethnic, electronic experimental and modern classical music.

Ege Bamyasi drops the haze and hits with a sharp pang from the get-go. Often described as the “tense” Can album, Ege Bamyasi is actually the band at its most focused, bolstered in part by the excellent performance of the single “Spoon”. The proto synth-pop (or synth-rock) song was used as the theme to a popular German television show. The album most famously includes “Vitamin C” which according to Pitchfork is “...still the best funk ever to come out of Europe.”

Can’s powerful influence has never diminished, and their indelible mark is apparent in the bands who freely acknowledge their importance - from Portishead, James Murphy, New Order, Factory Floor, Public Image Ltd, Mogwai, Kanye West (who sampled ‘Sing Swan Song’) to Radiohead - as well as artists creating across other disciplines including visual art and literature.

CAN

(Limited Edition Orange Vinyl)

Street Date: 10/11/19

Mute and Can are excited to announce the repress of Tago Mago on limited edition orange vinyl. Tago Mago the first album with Damo Suzuki on vocals, features the Can line up of Holger Czukay on bass, Michael Karoli on guitars, Jaki Liebezeit on drums and Irmin Schmidt on keyboards, and was recorded at Schloss Nörvenich in 1971, released later that year on United Artists.

Can's influence is well known and far-reaching and the impact they made on music is felt today as keenly as ever has been. They themselves have always been impossible to classify and reflecting this, the scope of artists who in recent years have cited Can as a major influence is varied. Of all the band's oeuvre, Tago Mago has been most often cited as an influence for a host of artists including John Lydon, Radiohead, The Fall, Ariel Pink, Fuck Buttons, Sonic Youth, Factory Floor and Queens Of The Stone Age.

PRESS

"...raw, genuine rock music." - Alt Citizen

"Los Angeles' Starcrawler are retro scuzz-rockers led by freak-show frontwoman Arrow de Wilde, a bloodthirsty banshee with shock-rock attitude." - Revolver Magazine

"It's an aggravated yet alluring impression that presents Starcrawler as a strutting, flailing caricature of scuzz-rock; one that's so hyperbolic but somehow accurate, you can't help but applaud the spectacle, even if you're soaked in beer and backwash." - Vanyaland

"Combining gleefully catchy power pop with sludgy punk rock, Starcrawler carry their own distinct old-school identity." - SF Weekly

Born on the streets of Los Angeles, Starcrawler is a band possessed by the spirit of its own hometown, every movement charged with a manic electricity. Since forming in 2015, vocalist Arrow de Wilde, guitarist/vocalist Henri Cash, bassist Tim Franco, and drummer Austin Smith have gone from bashing out classic-punk covers in the garage to winning the love of such legendary artists as Shirley Manson and Elton John. They've also opened for the likes of Beck, Foo Fighters, Spoon, and MC5, bringing their unhinged energy to an already-fabled live show—a spectacle that's simultaneously lurid and glorious and elegant as ballet. On their sophomore full-length Devour You, Starcrawler captures that dynamic with a whole new precision, revealing their rare ability to find a fragile beauty in even the greatest chaos.

Produced by Nick Launay (Nick Cave & the Bad Seeds, Yeah Yeah Yeahs, L7), Devour You takes the feral intensity of their 2018 self-titled debut and twists it into something grander and more gracefully composed. With its more elaborate and nuanced yet harder-hitting sonic palette, the album came to life at the famed Sunset Sound, where the band spent their downtime playing H-O-R-S-E at the basketball hoop and drinking lots of Mexican Cokes. Adorned with so many unexpected flourishes—choir-like backing vocals from a local Girl Scouts troop, tuba and trombone riffs courtesy of Cash (the band's 18-year-old musical polymath)—the result is a selection of songs radiating both raw sensitivity and untamable power.

Heavy and swinging and brutally catchy, "Bet My Brains" shows the psychic kinship at the heart of Starcrawler's songwriting. "That song came from thinking about the mole people in New York and Vegas and the Catacombs in France, and the underground village of people who live in the sewers of the L.A. River," says de Wilde. "I was fascinated with the fact that there's whole other world happening right under our feet."

Elsewhere on Devour You, Starcrawler drifts from the dreamy piano lilt of "No More Pennies" to the rock-and-roll disco of "You Dig Yours" to the pure punk vitriol of "Toy Teenager" (a song about de Wilde's refusal to be abused the fashion industry, and about how "people look at my body and just want to put me on a platter"). And on "Born Asleep" the band lets their love for country music shine, slipping into a modern-day murder ballad spiked with pieces of hazy poetry (sample lyric: "I remember when you cut your lip, sippin' on a soda can/And the time when you fell and tripped, screaming at the ice cream man").

As an antidote to the toxic mildness overtaking so much of the city, Starcrawler's live show has only become more outrageous over the years. Prone to spitting fake blood and slapping phones from the hands of crowd members, de Wilde has proven to be a once-in-a-lifetime performer, captivating enough to command a room with just the widening of her eyes. "We want to put on a real show and give people some kind of escape from all the shit going on in the world," she says. "And with the album, I want people to put it on and feel excited, and hopefully get goosebumps. I always want there to be a dramatic response."

After nearly a decade's worth of DIY touring and writing/recording with various bands (including Antarctigo Vespucci, his collaboration with Jeff Rosenstock), Florida native Chris Farren decided to shift his focus and began writing songs under his own name. His debut solo album released in 2016, Can't Die, showcased Farren's strengths as a pop songwriter and pushed him to relocate to Los Angeles. He took his new material out on the road alone, performing solo with backing tracks and added visuals, while simultaneously developing a newfound sense of humor when it came to promoting himself online.

With his sophomore album and Polyvinyl debut, Born Hot, Farren takes it a step further. Songs like "Search 4 Me" and "Love Theme from 'Born Hot'" are proof that Farren knows what it takes to write a hook, while songs like "R U Still There?" and "Floruit De Maga" showcase his strengths as a lyricist, telling stories of loss, grief, insecurity, and loneliness..

OVERVIEW

Richard Dawson, the black-humoured bard of Newcastle, returns to release his sixth solo album 2020, his first since the critically acclaimed, Peasant.

2020 is an utterly contemporary state-of-the-nation study, that uncovers a tumultuous and bleak time. Here is an island country in a state of flux; a society on the edge of mental meltdown. This is England today.

On 2020, Dawson introduces us to grand themes through small lives. His are portraits of human beings struggling with recognisable (and dare we say it, relatable) concerns, conflicts and desires, each reminding us that tragedy and gallows humour are not mutually exclusive, and that the magical can sit next to the mundane. Lyrically it is by far Dawson's hardest-hitting and unflinchingly honest album to date. It is his poetic masterwork.

Here is life, in all its strange and wonderful ways.

"It is utterly unique music, reminiscent perhaps of the complex, gnarled story-songs purveyed by Mayo Thompson and Joanna Newsom, but taken to much darker, more physical extremes."

TINY MIX TAPES [on 2017's Peasant]

"a breakthrough for Dawson: an overwhelming, vulgar, and deeply rewarding record."

ETHEREAL KINGDOMS

HOLLOW MIRROR

UNPREDICTABLE BEAUTY. UNEXPECTED BRUTALITY. SURRENDER TO THE THEATRICAL METAL EXPERIENCE: ETHEREAL KINGDOMS

Denmarks new symphonic metal act, Ethereal Kingdoms, deliver a unique and modern take on theatrical symphonic metal. Enter their sonic universe, explore the full range of musical emotion. From nostalgic melodies to haunting dissonances, from soaring high notes to shattering screams, from heartfelt solos to destroyed violins.

October 11th 2019 the band unveils their debut album "Hollow Mirror" via Mighty Music. The album is a collection of ghost stories, brought to life by 16-voice choirs, intricate orchestrations and classical soloists in fusion with the metal ensemble. Guest performances by renowned folk artist Sigurboði Grétarsson (Danheim, Niðafjöll) and award-winning singer-songwriter Amalie Skriver brings a larger-than-life quality to the storytelling of Ethereal Kingdoms.

For fans of Epica, Nightwish & Wintersun.

STARGAZER

THE SKY IS THE LIMIT

IF YOU ARE INTO "IN YOUR FACE" CLASSIC MELODIC HARD ROCK WITH ELEMENTS OF LED ZEPPELIN, VAN HALEN, WHITESNAKE, DIO AND DEEP PURPLE; THEN STARGAZER IS A BAND FOR YOU.

Stargazer's first album received great reviews from the hard rock-based media all over Europe back in 2010. Now, 9 years on, Stargazer is back with their second album entitled "The Sky is the Limit". After years of struggle on the tiny hard rock scene of Norway playing festivals and support for bands like Jorn, Stage Dolls, DAD, Gary Moore, Nazareth and more, Stargazer are now ready to take on the world.

So, to conclude for the direction Stargazer is heading, you should just take a look at the album title and title track off their first single: The Sky is the Limit!

The Specials are one of the defining bands of the late 70's/early 80's along with Jerry Dammers' iconic label Two Tone Records. Originally formed in 1977 as The Coventry Automatics, The Specials combined Jamaican ska and Rocksteady mixed with the energy of punk and launched a whole Ska Revival which helped fellow like-minded bands Madness, The Beat and The Selecter to release their first singles.

The Specials first single, 'Gangsters', was released in May 1979 with independent distribution by Rough Trade and the initial pressing of just 5,000 records sold out. The band and label soon signed with Chrysalis Records who picked up on the release of 'Gangsters.' The next single, 'A Message To You Rudy', followed in September with their first album released soon after in October.

This 40th Anniversary Edition of their debut album 'Specials' has been mastered and cut at half-speed by Miles Showell at Abbey Road Studios using the original production tapes. This edition has been split across 2x 12" vinyl at 45rpm for optimum audio quality.

The Specials recently celebrated a UK Number One with their new album 'Encore' and are currently on a 40th Anniversary World Tour.
