KENNY WAYNE SHEPHERD BAND

STRAIGHT TO YOU LIVE

GENERAL INFORMATION

ARTIST: Kenny Wayne Shepherd
TITLE: Straight To You: LIVE
HOMETOWN: Shreveport, LA
GENRE: Blues / Rock
PARENTAL ADVISORY STICKERED: No

It has been a decade since the Grammy-nominated 'Live in Chicago' captured the ferocity of Kenny Wayne Shepherd and his band's live performance. Since then the multi-platinum selling Shepherd has gone from strength to strength, releasing four studio albums and touring the world over several times - from Brazil to Europe, India to Canada and US to Australia and beyond. Now, The Kenny Wayne Shepherd Band will be releasing their first live album in 10 years this winter. 'Straight To You: Live' will be released on November 27th via Provogue Records.

The band was only a couple of weeks into 'The Traveler World Tour' when the Covid-19 pandemic broke, and the world came to a standstill. The show took place at the famous Leverkusener Jazzstage for the iconic German TV show, Rockpalast on November 25th, 2019. 'The Traveler' was released in May last year, giving the band their 8th US Billboard Blues #1 album, when they hit the road. "People have been asking us to do a live DVD forever," explains Shepherd. "We've been focusing so much on studio recordings, but I've been hearing the call from the fans for many years now." As live music has come to a standstill, the band wanted to give the fans a taste once again for that experience and this blistering set shows them in full force.

The seven-piece band took the stage and immediately launched into their most-recent hit-single 'Woman Like You,' with the honey-soaked powerhouse voice of Noah Hunt blasting "I ain't looking for a one time girl" backed by the fiery fretwork of Shepherd. Taken from 'The Traveler,' it's the first of four songs from the latest studio album, "Woman Like You" is the perfect opening song for the show," Shepherd says. "You come out swinging, it sets the mood for the entire show. It's like, we're there to rock, and we mean business." "The whole intention of this set-list is that we come out with a lot of energy, get the crowd pumped up. We want to get them energised right off the bat." It slips into the soul-drenched blues of 'Long Time Running,' with Chris Layton's drums firing through the building horn section as Hunt and Shepherd lock-in on duel vocals, whilst blue and yellow lights spray the stage, catapulting you right to the front row of the audience.

The release of 'Straight To You: Live' comes during a time when there is no live music and the world looks like a very different place compared to a year prior. As the seven-piece Kenny Wayne Shepherd Band bow out on a phenomenal finale of Jimi Hendrix's 'Voodoo Child (Slight Return),' they wave goodbye to the cheering Leverkusener crowd and it reignites that love of live music and the hope that is to come.

'Love & Peace' was produced by Seasick Steve, who also mixed the album with Vance Powell (Jack White, Chris Stapleton), while long-term musical companion Dan Magnusson contributed drums. The album was recorded on 2" analogue tape in Los Angeles at Studio 606 and East West Studio 3, with additional recording taking place at his barn. It also features special guests in the shape of Luther Dickinson (NMAS) and Malcolm Arison of The BossHoss, who lets loose on a number of tracks, but most notably with a ferocious harmonica solo on 'Church Of Me'.

The resulting record finds Seasick Steve mixing up all of his much-loved ingredients to deliver a fresh new record that offers the perfect antidote for the troubled times in which we live. Full of hope for the future, it's a great mix of boogie, blues, rock, Americana and folk – all delivered in his unique style.

Mino Cinelu & Nils Petter Molvæer | SulaMadiana

“SulaMadiana” is a cornucopia, spilling out reverberations of Miles Davis, Gong, and previous works of Molvæer, and yet Molvæer and Cinelu open up doors to entirely new worlds. The album title is not some ancient spell, but a confession to the musicians’ respective biographies. Sula is the island from which Molvæer stems, Madiana is a synonym for Martinique, where Cinelu’s father comes from. “SulaMadiana” combines all which is perceived as trusted, familiar, and achieved, with a notion of sounds beyond the horizon: glittering, shimmering, and always promising. “SulaMadiana” is a world within itself, waiting to be discovered. The album will easily make its stand amongst previous creations of unmistakable sound worlds, such as Miles Davis’ “Bitches Brew” or Pat Metheny’s and Lyle May’s “As Falls Wichita So Falls Wichita Falls”. In times like these, we take comfort in knowing there are still musicians around who keep an eye and ear on the world as a whole.

Nils Petter Molvæer and Mino Cinelu both came a long way until their meeting became inevitable.

Cinelu gained international renown on Miles Davis’ albums such as “We Want Miles” or “Amandla”. It is his percussive storytelling in particular which gave these records their mystical depth and spatial transparency.

He has worked on several recordings from Weather Report, and, until recently, with the long-term prog institution “Gong”. Herbie Hancock, Pat Metheny, Sting, Santana, Lou Reed and Laurie Anderson all made use of his skills. His CD “Quest Journey” (2002) comes across like a collection of gripping short films. In 1995, together with Dave Holland and Kevin Eubanks, he had already sparked the magic of a complete sound world once before.

Nils Petter Molvæer is one of the most outstanding figures in European jazz. In 1997, he made his debut with the CD “Khmer”, combining the Nordic feeling of nature with the Southeast Asian philosophy of sound. His journey into the uncharted areas of music spans almost a dozen records, on which he explored various combinations of acoustic and electrical sound generation. He dared to have genre affairs, e.g. with Berlin’s electronic producer Moritz von Oswald in 2013, with the reggae philosophers Sly & Robbie in 2018, or with Bill Laswell on several occasions.

DESTRUCTION

BORN TO THRASH (LIVE IN GERMANY)

For fans of Kreator, Sodom, Overkill, Slayer & Thrash Metal!

Last year, German thrash metal veterans DESTRUCTION played a spectacular show at the country's Party.San Metal Open Air festival. Fortunately, for everyone who wasn't able to attend, the thrash heroes recorded this metal party — and now that the COVID-19 pandemic has crippled the whole touring industry, the time has come to share this memory from a gorgeous show: DESTRUCTION's live album, "Born To Thrash - Live In Germany", will be released on Double LP Gatefold (blue/black splatter) with world map insert and special etching.

DESTRUCTION frontman Schmier comments: "We recorded this special show on the release weekend of our 'Born To Perish' record last year, at Germany's awesome Party.San festival. We had the very spontaneous idea to do a live album in these difficult times, where the fans and us bands are longing for concerts. This might help us a bit to keep the spirit, bring us some joy and great memories back. This is also the first live record of DESTRUCTION as a four-piece since the legendary 'Live Without Sense' album.

"The current lineup is the strongest we ever had — and, of course, this shows best on a live stage! We have kept it raw and authentic and hope our fans will enjoy this atmospheric highlight of our last concert season as much as we did while thrashing on stage."

Destruction is a German thrash metal band, formed in 1982. They are often credited as one of the "Big Four" of the German thrash metal scene, the others being Kreator, Sodom and Tankard. Destruction was part of the second wave of thrash metal in the late 1980s, along with American bands Testament, Sacred Reich and Death Angel.

Lee Ritenour

dreamcatcher

GENERAL INFORMATION

ARTIST: Lee Ritenour
TITLE: Dreamcatcher
HOMETOWN: Los Angeles, CA
GENRE: Jazz

For Lee Ritenour, there aren't many 'firsts' left to achieve. During his dazzling five-decade career, the fabled LA guitarist has taken his music to the outer limits, alighting on every genre and occupying every position in the rock 'n' roll firmament. He's been an enfant terrible of '70s fusion, a crossover star of the '80s pop chart, an honorary exponent of Brazilian jazz, and the fingers behind '90s supergroup, Fourplay. Ritenour's accolades include: 45 albums, 16 Grammy nominations, Alumnus of the year at USC, Los Angeles' Jazz Society Honoree (2019), plus thousands of sessions with legends such as Frank Sinatra, Pink Floyd, B.B. King, Tony Bennett, among others. And yet, when he checks the rear-view mirror, the 68-year-old acknowledges he's never made a record like Dreamcatcher. "People have been telling me for years: 'Rit, you gotta make a solo guitar record'. In the past, I've always been the band guy, so this was the one project I hadn't done. And this year, I knew it was time."

Weaving with tapestries of instrumental guitar and conjuring eclectic moods, the 12 tracks of Dreamcatcher rank amongst the most melodic and beautiful in Ritenour's catalogue. But there's a power and purpose here, too, hinting at the darker circumstances that sparked this new record. "Our house and my studio in Malibu, California burnt down in 2018," he recalls. "About 100 of my guitars went up in the fire, plus 40 amps, lots of music, and much of the history of my whole career. A week after the fire, I went to the hospital for surgery to replace an aortic valve. So those incidents and the support from my family and friends absolutely went into this music. Making this record was a life-saver for me." Dreamcatcher might have been born from personal challenges, but the record took shape against the global tragedy of Covid-19. Ritenour had already written several key tracks before shutdown. But as he settled into the makeshift studio at his new home in Marina Del Rey, the guitarist let the context flood into the music he was tracking. "It was an important album for me," he notes. "Especially now, with everything going on in the world." Even without lyrics, every track tells a story.

Dreamcatcher not only confronts the here-and-now: it also slips back into Ritenour's rich history. Long-standing fans will recognize "Morning Glory Jam" as a rework of the guitarist's classic 1977 tune. Casting his mind still further back, "The Lighthouse" shares its name with the storied LA jazz club where the teenage Ritenour was to be found most nights in the mid-'60s as his honed his skills. Ritenour's eclectic early tastes have served him well throughout his career while he forged his own path as LA's busiest session man. Dreamcatcher is available December 4th through The Player's Club.

MASCOT LABEL GROUP

RÓISÍN MURPHY // RÓISÍN MACHINE

Róisín Murphy's highly anticipated new album, the fabulously titled "Róisín Machine" first full length project since 2015's Mercury Nominated "Hairless Toys" and 2016's equally revered "Take Her Up To Monto" will be released on September 25th via Skint / BMG.

"Róisín Machine" is the culmination of a rich, decades long partnership between Murphy and one of her most trusted collaborators Crooked Man aka DJ Parrot. Although packed to the rafters with masterclass singles, including "Simulation", "Jealousy", "Incapable", Narcissus and "Murphy's Law", it is also an ingeniously and seamlessly edited listening experience, designed to be listened to in one uninterrupted sitting, from start to dazzling finish.

From the intoxicating disco-funk of "Incapable", to the quintessential "Narcissus" which crystallised New-Disco and established a high watermark for the genre, to "Murphy's Law", a 70's inflected stomper, "Róisín Machine" offers up everything you could ask for on an exquisite plate. Added to the familiar tunes are five new songs, including the Dalek-funk of 'We Got Together' and the fantastical "Shellfish Mademoiselle". An album that works perfectly on the home sound system but also comes alive in a basement sweatbox, it impeccably sits alongside Murphy's stellar cannon of work released across 25 boundary pushing, trailblazing years, a career encompassing iconic music, directorial, art and fashion moments.

“We didn’t think about the logistics. We just cared about getting like-minded people working on something to see through our vision.” Gone Is Gone is a new band, but it’s not. It began a few years back, a joint project by movie trailer composer Mike Zarin and composer/drummer Tony Hajjar of At The Drive-In. Introduced by a mutual friend, the pair first joined forces to create film music for Zarin’s music production company, Sencit. It was instrumental music intended for film trailers—music that was very well received within the industry. So much so that they recorded more, which was equally well-received. “We started just writing,” recalls Zarin. “And we expanded the style—within some sort of sub-genre—and we had this one particular song that people kept using. Then they started asking us for more like this song. And we were like, ‘We think we stumbled onto a sound here.’”

They brought in guitarist Troy Van Leeuwen, a friend of Hajjar’s who’s known for his work with Queens Of The Stone Age, A Perfect Circle, Failure, Sweethead, and much more. “We played him the music we’d been doing,” says Zarin. “‘We want to start a band like this,’ we told him. ‘Let’s do this.’” “And he’s like, ‘Cool, man, that sounds awesome.’” Then the finishing touch: the addition of Troy Sanders, bassist and vocalist for multi-Grammy nominees Mastodon. “He was on board right away,” says Zarin.

As Troy Sanders has said in interviews, “nobody in Gone is Gone needs another band,” but they seem to continue to find the small gaps of time to create together or separately. With so many reasons not to do the project, they have always found ways of never giving up on it.
