Description: For BarlowGirl, Our Journey...So Far is all about their fans. It's a collection of the 15 songs that effectively tell the story of the 13-time Dove Award nominated band BarlowGirl throughout their first 10 years. The album not only tells the story of the band musically (including their #1 radio hits "Never Alone", "I Need You To Love Me" and "Let Go") but it also tells their story visually. Included in the packaging is a 16 page booklet that dips into the Barlow family archives and reveals the history of the band through never-before-seen images. Unlike the typical "best of" album, Our Journey...So Far lays out both the music and the visual content chronologically. It's truly a product that will engage all fans no matter when they first connected with BarlowGirl.

ALBUM FACTS

Genre: Classical Producers: Regina Greene, Front Porch Productions Radio Formats: Classical, New Music

Description:

The August 9th 2009, American premiere of composer Rhys Chatham's A Crimson Grail, captured on this disc, was monumental in concept, execution and impact. The piece was originally written for 125 electric guitars and designed to fill the acoustically blessed interior of the Sacre-Coeur Basilica in Paris. The New York Times described that initial presentation as "a meditative, slowly unfolding work, filled with huge, droning sound clouds that, like a pointillist landscape, reveal great detail on close inspection." By the time Chatham brought the work to his native New York City for a single performance that had literally been years in the making, the piece had been re-imagined for the urban outdoors and arranged to practically fill the sky. Presented in Damrosch Park on Manhattan's Upper West Side as part of the Lincoln Center Out of Doors festival, in conjunction with the Wordless Music Series, A Crimson Grail featured an astonishing 200 electric guitars, 16 electric basses, five conductors and one percussionist. For the thousands who witnessed this event, it was an earth-shaking visual and sonic spectacle. On this live document, A Crimson Grail becomes something else yet again: a hypnotic, album-length piece that's visceral, soul stirring, and at times surprisingly intimate. Its thunderous passages give way to meditative interludes and the music builds to a kind of musical and spiritual ecstasy.

As Rolling Stone's David Rieck has noted, "Composer-guitarist-trumpeter Rhys Chatham was virtually born into the avant-garde." Chatham resided at the heart of the classical and new music scene in New York City of the seventies as, among other things, a student of LaMonte Young, a piano tuner for Glenn Gould, and music curator of The Kitchen, Manhattan's most important multidisciplinary outpost for the new and adventurous. Chatham experienced an artistic epiphany when he witnessed a show by rigorous Minimalists of an altogether different sort, the Ramones, at a then little-known club called CBGB's and that inspired him to pick up the guitar. Chatham's fusion of classical chops, a Minimalist aesthetic and a sense of rock bravado led to groundbreaking - and earsplitting -- work that has influenced significant artists in rock as well as the avant garde, including Sonic Youth, the Swans, Husker Du and My Bloody Valentine. His ideas are perhaps more relevant to young artists and music buyers than ever before. A Crimson Grail, said the New York Times, offered "a chance to witness the homecoming of a prodigal son of New York Minimalism, an art-music composer who has had a tremendous, if underappreciated, effect on the world of rock."

A Crimson Grail reaffirms the prescience of the young Chatham's vision. Those new to Chatham's work will be inspired and exhilarated; those already familiar with his repertoire and his reputation cannot fail to be moved once again.

ARTIST & INFO

Rhys Chatham is a composer, guitarist, and trumpet player from Manhattan, currently living in Paris. He was the founder of the music program at The Kitchen in downtown Manhattan in 1971 and was its music director between 1971-73 and 1977-80. While at The Kitchen he was responsible for programming more than 250 concerts of living composers including the NEW MUSIC / NEW YORK Festival, which was the prototype upon which the NEW MUSIC AMERICA Festival was later based.

Chatham studied under, was influenced by, or has collaborated with Maryanne Amacher, Don Cherry, Tony Conrad, Jon Hassell, Charlemagne Palestine, Eliane Radigue, Terry Riley, Frederic Rzewski, Morton Subotnick, Serge Tcherepnin, and La Monte Young, among many others. With Rhys Chatham's composition Guitar Trio (1977), he became the first composer to make use of multiple electric guitars in special tunings to merge the extended-time music of the '60s and '70s with serious hard rock. Chatham continued this pursuit over the next decade, culminating in 1989 with the composition and performance of his first symphony for an orchestra of 100 electric guitars, An Angel Moves Too Fast to See.

Description:

The men of Chromeo are about to release Business Casual, which is their third full-length album and a testament to the growth and further sophistication the band has undergone over the many years they've been collaborating. After their sophomore release, Fancy Footwork, pushed them into the stratosphere of party-rocking, club-banging, and heart-thrilling electrofunk, we might consider Business Casual their postgraduate work. Where does a group go after mastering their craft? Do they rest on their laurels? Do they retreat into self-parody? Neighbor, please. Chromeo, in 2010, have pushed forward into yet newer levels of song craft and body moving music that is respectfully indebted to its noble inspirations while still being fully contemporary. Are there lush string arrangements on "Don't Walk Away"? Do we have Moroder-esque analog synth layers draped all over "Don't Turn The Lights On"? Is there a fully authentic French ballad (don't forget, Dave and P are of the Québécois persuasion and will never abandon those roots) in "J'ai Claqué la porte"? Well yes, actually, to all of the above.

But what's this we have here? The flip side of Chromeo, the emotional gangster tracks, are still here on Business Casual, represented by titles such as "Hot Mess," "I'm Not Contagious," and "You Make It Rough." And, newly added to the roster, we have the straight-up pop, vanilla in the best sense (creamy and smooth), of "The Right Type," a get-up-and-go tune in the greatest 80s tradition, and the album closer, "Grow Up," which almost sounds like golden era Billy Joel backed up by Cameo. How real is that?

Lyricaly, Dave continues to mine the rich vein of affairs of the heart. Is there really any other topic that Chromeo needs to cover? Arrogant ladies, dancefloor seduction, boudoir skills, love gone wrong, and knights in shining armor... Chromeo does all this and more with their trademark Franco-insouciance-that-borders-on-coolness and their always sexy worldliness (pause).

In these uncertain times of financial upheaval and musical mediocrity, Chromeo's Business Casual is a testament to the fact that inspirational funk shall always prevail. Vive le Chromeo!

ARTIST & INFO

Hometown: Montreal, Quebec and New York, NY

Chromeo is an electrofunk duo based in Montreal, Canada composed of P-Thugg on keyboards, synthesizers, and talk box, and Dave 1 on guitar and lead vocals. The two childhood friends jokingly describe themselves as "the only successful Arab/Jewish partnership since the dawn of human culture."

Description:

The men of Chromeo are about to release Business Casual, which is their third full-length album and a testament to the growth and further sophistication the band has undergone over the many years they've been collaborating. After their sophomore release, Fancy Footwork, pushed them into the stratosphere of party-rocking, club-banging, and heart-thrilling electrofunk, we might consider Business Casual their postgraduate work. Where does a group go after mastering their craft? Do they rest on their laurels? Do they retreat into self-parody? Neighbor, please. Chromeo, in 2010, have pushed forward into yet newer levels of song craft and body moving music that is respectfully indebted to its noble inspirations while still being fully contemporary. Are there lush string arrangements on "Don't Walk Away"? Do we have Moroder-esque analog synth layers draped all over "Don't Turn The Lights On"? Is there a fully authentic French ballad (don't forget, Dave and P are of the Québécois persuasion and will never abandon those roots) in "J'ai Claqué la porte"? Well yes, actually, to all of the above.

But what's this we have here? The flip side of Chromeo, the emotional gangster tracks, are still here on Business Casual, represented by titles such as "Hot Mess," "I'm Not Contagious," and "You Make It Rough." And, newly added to the roster, we have the straight-up pop, vanilla in the best sense (creamy and smooth), of "The Right Type," a get-up-and-go tune in the greatest 80s tradition, and the album closer, "Grow Up," which almost sounds like golden era Billy Joel backed up by Cameo. How real is that?

Literally, Dave continues to mine the rich vein of affairs of the heart. Is there really any other topic that Chromeo needs to cover? Arrogant ladies, dancefloor seduction, boudoir skills, love gone wrong, and knights in shining armor... Chromeo does all this and more with their trademark Franco-insouciance-that-borders-on-coolness and their always sexy worldliness (pause).

In these uncertain times of financial upheaval and musical mediocrity, Chromeo's Business Casual is a testament to the fact that inspirational funk shall always prevail. Vive le Chromeo!

ARTIST & INFO

By the time Eric Clapton launched his solo career with the release of his self-titled debut album in mid-1970, he was long established as one of the world's major rock stars due to his group affiliations -- the Yardbirds, John Mayall's Bluesbreakers, Cream, and Blind Faith -- which had demonstrated his claim to being the best rock guitarist of his generation.

Clapton has been inducted into the Rock and Roll Hall of Fame as a solo performer and as a member of the bands Yardbirds and Cream. He is the only person ever to be inducted three times. In his 40-year-plus career, Eric Clapton has received a total of 18 Grammys.

ALBUM FACTS

Genre: Rock Producers: Terry Date, Deftones Packaging Specs: 2-LP Set Reissue. Two regular weight black vinyl discs at Record Industry, in Stoughton gatefold jacket (3K)

Description: White Pony is the third album by Deftones, released in 2000. It is the follow up to Around the Fur, which was released in 1997, and marks a significant growth in the band's sound; incorporating New Wave and shoegaze influences with the alternative metal edge the group had honed and become known for. To this end, it is generally regarded by fans and critics alike as their most mature outing.

The song "Passenger" features the guest vocals of Tool and A Perfect Circle vocalist Maynard James Keenan. The band won a Grammy Award for Best Metal Performance for the song "Elite" in 2001.[1]A total of four different versions of the album exist. On its release date, limited edition copies were released with solid red and black jewel cases. The two different colored cases also featured different insert booklets. Both limited edition versions included the added track "The Boy's Republic", but did not include "Back to School (Mini Maggit)".

ARTIST & INFO

Hometown: Sacramento, CA

Deftones have never been your average hard rock band. As kids, the Sacramento band cut its teeth on Anthrax and The Smiths, Pantera and The Cure, skateboarding and "The Smurfs." As a band out of high school, Deftones mixed trip hop with thrash, melodic vocals with crushing reverb, and yes, pretty with ugly. As chart-toppers and headliners, they've crossed over genres, defied categorization and confused the hell out of your iPod ("Heavy Metal?" "Hard Rock?" "Alternative?")

ALBUM FACTS

Genre: Classical Producers: Helmut Mühle Radio Formats: Classical

Description:

The cover image for Grammy Award-winning violinist Gidon Kremer's De Profundis is drawn from a powerful series of photographs called "Soul Of Fuel" by Alexandra Kremer-Khomassouridze that hauntingly depicts the places where oil deposits lie beneath the surface and the often ravaged-looking industrial plants in the former Soviet Union where oil is processed. All-too-timely thoughts about oil - our appetite for it and the power and taste for tyranny it can convey on those around the world who control it - were on Kremer's mind as he selected this 12-track set, which includes pieces from a wide range of composers representing the 18th to the 21st centuries, from Franz Schubert to Astor Piazzolla, Dimitri Shostakovich to Michael Nyman. To Kremer, the works are linked to each other in a profound spiritual way that is almost indescribable.

De Profundis - its title taken from a 1998 piece by the young Lithuanian composer Raminta Sersnyte featured on the album - is designed to be, as Kremer puts it in his notes, "fuel for the soul," drawing from a deep artistic and emotional well. The composers, whose works span nearly two centuries, are: Jean Sibelius, Arvo Pärt, Raminta Šerkšnytė—(whose piece, De Profundis, lends the album its title), Robert Schumann, Michael Nyman, Franz Schubert, Stevan Kovacs Tickmayer, Dmitri Shostakovich, Lera Auerbach, Astor Piazzolla, Georgs Pelecis, and Alfred Schnittke. Kremer writes of them, "Out of the depths' these artists cry out for a better world...Their spiritual missive, like oil, can sustain humans by appealing to their profoundest emotions, by letting them open up, 12 pieces selected for this album sends its own individual message to the listener, one that my colleagues from Kremerata Baltica and I have tried to illuminate."

The album also features the youthful Kremerata Baltica, the chamber ensemble of fellow Latvian musicians he founded. Kremer's 2009 Nonesuch release with Kremer Baltica was the acclaimed two-disc Mozart: The Complete Violin Concertos, which BBC Music Magazine, in a five-star review, called "an altogether impressive achievement." The New York Times concurred: "Gidon Kremer's great interpretative strength has always been his ability to make a work, however familiar, entirely his own."

Kremer and Kremerata Baltica will perform selections from De Profundis on their 2010-11 tour, which will include visits to most major American markets. Regarding the ensemble's interpretative powers, the Los Angeles Times has declared, "They are utterly alive to the possibilities in the scores. They make every detail stand out; they play with an overpowering sense of joy...and they are deep."

ARTIST & INFO

Over the course of nearly thirty years of a distinguished career, violinist Gidon Kremer, born in Riga in 1947, has established a worldwide reputation as one of the most original and compelling artists of his generation, praised for his high degree of individualism, his rejection of the well-trodden paths of interpretation, and his search for new possibilities. Gidon Kremer has made more than one hundred recordings for a number of record labels. His most recent Nonesuch release is Happy Birthday (2003), whose release follows a disc of works by Romanian composer Georges Enescu (2002) and the Grammy Award-winning After Mozart (2001). Tracing Astor (2001) marked the third disc in a trilogy of albums celebrating the music of Astor Piazzolla, which also includes the Grammy-nominated Hommage à Piazzolla (1996) and El Tango (1997), featuring arrangements of works by Piazzolla performed by Kremer's acclaimed Astor Quartet.

Kremer's recordings, which have earned him a series of major international awards, have set new standards of interpretation. His repertoire is unusually extensive, encompassing all of the standard classical and Romantic violin works, as well as music by twentieth century masters. He has also championed the works of living Russian and Eastern European composers and has performed many important new compositions, of which several are dedicated to him. It is owing to his never-ending activities that we are able to appreciate composers such as Alfred Schnittke, Arvo Pärt, Sofia Gubaidulina, Valentin Silvestrov, Luigi Nono, Aribert Reimann, John Adams and Astor Piazzolla, while being able to experience classical music in a new way, one that bears tradition and at the same time remains contemporary.

Deeply committed to chamber music, his music festival in the small Austrian village of Lockenhaus, founded in 1981, is the realization of his belief that music can overcome all barriers of language and culture. Since 1992 the Lockenhaus musicians have been performing all over the world under the Kremerata Musica logo. On the occasion of Franz Schubert's 200th birthday celebrations in 1997, they undertook a comprehensive concert cycle throughout Europe, including appearances at the Salzburg Festival.

In November 1996 Gidon Kremer founded the Kremerata Baltica, a chamber orchestra to foster outstanding young musicians from the three Baltic States. The Kremerata Baltica, which began undertaking regular concert tours with Kremer in 1997, has signed an exclusive, six-record deal with Nonesuch Records, of which Eight Seasons (2000) was the inaugural release, followed by Silencio (2000) and After Mozart(2001). In 1997 Gidon Kremer also took over leadership of the Musiksommer Gstaad (Switzerland), in succession to Lord Yehudi Menuhin.

Kremer began studying the violin at the age of four with his father and grandfather, and in 1965 he became a student of David Oistrach's master class at the Moscow Conservatory. He has since been awarded the most prestigious violinist prizes, including the Tchaikovsky Competition in Moscow, and the Paganini Competition in Genoa, among others. He has also received many music awards such as the Frankfurt Music Award, the Ernst von Siemens Music Award, the first prize at the Accademia Musicale Chigiana and the Federal Service Cross of Germany. Kremer has appeared on virtually every major concert stage with the most celebrated orchestras of Europe and America, and has recorded with today's foremost conductors including Leonard Bernstein, Christoph Eschenbach, Nikolaus Harnoncourt, Herbert von Karajan and Riccardo Muti. Gidon Kremer plays a Guarneri del Gesù - ex David - dating from 1730.

Description: A Thousand Suns

We were not making an album.

For months, we'd been destroying and rebuilding our band. The experiments that resulted filled the studio hard drive with diverse, abstract sounds. Amorphous echoes, cacophonous samples, and handmade staccato merged into wandering, elusive melody. Each track felt like a hallucination.

We didn't know if any of those unorthodox ideas could be incorporated into a traditional album, but we knew we didn't want our next album to be predictable. Sitting together in the same studio where we made our first album, all six of us voiced a commitment to going out on a limb, to making something truly daring. We asked ourselves: were we all earnestly willing, more than ever before, to abandon the precepts of commercial ambition in pursuit of what we believe to be honest art?

The inclination to begin writing conventional songs for a conventional album came and went. The temptation to adjust our creative vision to fulfill expectations beyond our studio walls yielded to the audacious ambition of what he hoped to achieve as a band. The two years of making A Thousand Suns marked our exhilarating, surrealistic, and often challenging journey into the creative unknown.

On the eve of its completion, this body of work, assembled through unconscious inspiration and unmitigated exertion, has revealed to us notions both stirring and surprising. The album's personified imagery is neither dogma nor political premeditation. The emergent themes and metaphors illuminate a uniquely human story.

A Thousand Suns grapples with the personal cycle of pride, destruction, and regret. In life, like in dreams, this sequence is not always linear. And, sometimes, true remorse penetrates the devastating cycle. The hope, of course, springs from the notion that the possibility of change is born in our most harrowing moments.

Enjoy the music.

The temptation to adjust our creative vision to fulfill expectations beyond our studio walls yielded to the audacious ambition of what he hoped to achieve as a band. The two years of making A Thousand Suns marked our exhilarating, surrealistic, and often challenging journey into the creative unknown.

On the eve of its completion, this body of work, assembled through unconscious inspiration and unmitigated exertion, has revealed to us notions both stirring and surprising. The album's personified imagery is neither dogma nor political premeditation. The emergent themes and metaphors illuminate a uniquely human story.

A Thousand Suns grapples with the personal cycle of pride, destruction, and regret. In life, like in dreams, this sequence is not always linear. And, sometimes, true remorse penetrates the devastating cycle. The hope, of course, springs from the notion that the possibility of change is born in our most harrowing moments.

Enjoy the music.

and the Blasting Room, the production team of Bill Stevenson (Rise Against) and Jason Livermore (Puddle of Mudd). The resulting 14 songs showcase a hard sound with a positive slant.

"Laid," the first single, examines relationship troubles with a combination of wit and wisdom. The song is a propulsive lovelorn rocker that sugarcoats nothing. Jake, who co-wrote the song with S*A*M & Sluggo, reveals, "It's about an experience with a girl who's the ultimate wild child. She gets you under your skin, drives you totally crazy and she's gone."

Yet Jake doesn't shy away from pain on the record either. Songs such as the hypnotic and heartbreaking "Little Sister" see the singer baring his soul. With its soaring melody and crunching riff, "Little Sister" can be hummed or pondered because it's not culled from standard rock fodder. "My little sister died of infant death syndrome at age one. When I wrote that song, I was thinking about what she'd be like today if she were alive. How would my life be different? It's a sad song, but the chorus is very positive. Even if she's an angel now, she'll always be my sister and no matter what, I'm here for her."

In the end, Race You to the Bottom is based on honesty. "We never worried about fitting into a scene," declares the singer. "I don't care how my hair looks; I just want to write good songs. We're proud of the music we created, and it's the best feeling ever."

ARTIST & INFO

Hometown: Minneapolis Band Members:

Jake Scherer (Vocals), Dan Garland (Guitar), Matt Brady (Bass), Ryan Guanzon (Drums)

For lead vocalist Jake Scherer, the band's message is in their moniker. "Everybody has a different medicine-whether it's coffee, drugs, alcohol or cigarettes," says the singer. "When I was growing up, music was the only medicine I needed. If I was really bummed out about something, I'd put a record on and it'd cheer me up. Music's the ultimate healer."

In 2007, after years of playing in bands through middle school and high school, Jake decided to pursue music seriously as a career and began traveling back and forth from his hometown of Minneapolis to Nashville to hone his songwriting craft.

Immediately, New Medicine cultivated a following in Minneapolis as they constantly composed new material. With more than 100 songs in their arsenal, the band caught the attention of Photo Finish Records/Atlantic and joined the label's roster in summer 2009.

BUMPED

Nirvana meant everything to everyone, from the jangle pop veterans to the garage rock ravers that worshipped the Stooges to stoner metal fetishes and indie rock bed-sits that adopted Sebadoh just as they outgrew Morrissey - everybody loved Nirvana, and there's something for every kind fan here, thanks to murky sludge, Devo and Vaseline covers, BBC sessions, instrumentals, and limited-edition singles, plus sub-Melvins goop, everything visceral where Bleach was tame. Nevermind doesn't capture this freewheeling indie spirit but Insecticide does, piling on some essentials in the meantime - the pummeling "Dive," the childhood snapshot "Sliver," the terrific forgotten indie pop tune "Been a Son," and "Aneurysm," perhaps the greatest single song the group ever recorded. Yeah, there's some filler here, but this is the sound of what Nirvana was actually like.

ARTIST & INFO

Nirvana popularized punk, post-punk, and indie rock, unintentionally bringing it into the American mainstream like no other band to date. While Nirvana's ideology was indie rock and their melodies were pop, the sonic rush of their records and live shows merged the post-industrial white noise with heavy metal grind. And that's what made the group an unprecedented multi-platinum sensation.

James Otto was born into a military family at the Fort Lewis Army Base in Washington and grew up all over the U.S., including extended stays in North Dakota and Alabama. He started singing when he was only four years old, and learned both violin and saxophone before getting his first guitar at the age of 13. Otto did a two-year stint in the U.S. Navy and moved to Nashville in 1998, soon falling in with the so-called MuzikMafia, a feisty group of writers and musicians that included Big & Rich and Gretchen Wilson. Following a small screen role in Road House 2, he rebounded by signing with Raybaw Records, a Warner Bros. imprint, and released Sunset Man, produced by his brother-in-law (and Rascal Flatts member) Jay DeMarcus, in 2008.

ARTIST & INFO

Hometown: Texas Band Members: "Dimebag" Darrell (guitar); Vinnie Paul (drums); Philip Anselmo (lead vocals); Rex Brown (bass)

Pantera found its growl and groove on Cowboys From Hell, a landmark album whose bone-powdering intensity, razor-sharp riffing and pummeling rhythmic assault represented a turning point in modern metal when it was released in 1990. More than just Pantera's major label debut, many consider this album to be the official debut of the Pantera lineup with singer Philip Anselmo, guitarist "Dimebag" Darrell Abbott, his brother, drummer Vinnie Paul and bassist Rex Brown.

Genre: Classical Producers: Judy Sherman

Description: Nonesuch releases an album with two Steve Reich compositions - Double Sextet and 2x5 - on September 14, 2010. Double Sextet - which won the Pulitzer Prize in 2009 - is performed by eighth blackbird, who commissioned the piece. The Philadelphia Inquirer said of a recent performance by the ensemble, "Double Sextet is...among the finest pieces of our time...more than earlier Reich, it tips from exaltation to menace on a dime." Bang on a Can perform 2x5, which premiered last summer at a velodrome in Manchester, England. The work shared a double bill with German electronic music pioneers Kraftwerk and was commissioned by MIF in association with Casa da Música (Porto).

Double Sextet comprises two identical sextets of flute, clarinet, vibraphone, piano, violin, and cello. Doubling the instrumentation was done so that, as in so many of Reich's earlier works, two identical instruments could interlock to produce one overall pattern. The composer says, "For example, in this piece you will hear the pianos and vibes interlocking in a highly rhythmic way to drive the rest of the ensemble." The piece can be played in two ways: with 12 musicians, or with six playing against a recording of themselves. Reich continues, "The idea of a single player playing against a recording of themselves goes all the way back to Violin Phase of 1967. The expansion of this idea to an entire chamber ensemble playing against pre-recordings of itself begins with Different Trains (1988). By doubling an entire chamber ensemble, one creates the possibility for multiple simultaneous contrapuntal webs of identical instruments."

In 2x5, Reich expands his palate with rock instrumentation. Scored for two sets of five instruments (hence "2x5"), this 21-minute piece calls for a total of ten musicians: four electric guitars, two pianos, two bass guitars, and two drum sets. Performers can either play the piece all-live with ten musicians or with five live musicians against a pre-recorded tape, as Bang on a Can did for the premiere on the opening night of the Manchester International Festival. "Clearly 2x5 is not rock and roll, but uses the same instruments. It's an example of the essential difference between 'classical music' and 'popular music.' And that essential difference is: one is notated, and the other is not notated," Reich says. "I had to find musicians who (A), could read, and (B), had a genuine rock feeling, and there Bang on a Can excels."

Genre: Christian Focus Markets: Atlanta, GA Chicago, IL Houston, TX Washington, DC Greenville-Sprtnbrg-Ashvll Kansas City, KS-MO Baltimore, MD Dallas-Ft. Worth, TX Los Angeles, CA St. Louis, MO

Description: Chris Sligh's Word Records' debut, "The Anatomy of Broken," is an aptly titled collection of 14 songs that delves deep into the human condition and our profound need for a Savior. Co-produced with respected recording engineer, Steve Bishir, each song, written or co-written by Sligh, carries with it a different picture of brokenness and the resulting importance of extending compassion, mercy, and forgiveness to each other as people. "The goal of what i wanted to do with this record is to communicate that it's okay to admit that we're fallen and broken, and if we weren't broken, we wouldn't need Christ," Sligh explains. Standout tracks are "Only You Can Save," "One," and "In the Weak" (with Meredith Andrews).

ARTIST & INFO

Since making his recording debut in 2005, Trey Songz has patiently and artfully crafted some of the most acclaimed and compelling R&B music of the decade. His first two Songbook Entertainment/Atlantic albums, I Gotta Make It (2005) and Trey Day (2007), yielded a trio of top ten singles, "Girl Tonight," "Last Time," and "Can't Help But Wait." And when the latter song garnered Trey a coveted Grammy nomination for Best Male R&B Vocal Performance, it marked the validation of the faith shown in Trey by the late Atlantic Records founder Ahmet Ertegun, who hailed him as one of "the most promising R&B artists we have had since we started the company 60 years ago."

ARTIST & INFO

Hometown: New York

Sonic Youth is an American rock band from New York City, formed in 1981. In their early career, Sonic Youth was associated with the No Wave art and music scene in New York City. Part of the first wave of American noise rock groups, the band carried out their interpretation of the hardcore punk ethos throughout the evolving American underground that focused more on the DIY ethic of the genre rather than its specific sound. As a result, some consider Sonic Youth as pivotal in the rise of the alternative rock movement. The band has experienced success and critical acclaim throughout the last three decades, continuing into the new millennium, including signing to major label DGC in 1990, and headlining the 1995 Lollapalooza festival. Sonic Youth have expressed a wide variety of influences, ranging from the influential protopunk musician Patti Smith to composer John Cage. The band has been praised for having "redefined what rock guitar could do",[1] using a wide variety of unorthodox guitar tunings, and preparing guitars with objects like drumsticks and screwdrivers to alter the instruments' timbre.

BUMPED

Although its incandescent harmonies, lazily immediate songs, and crunching guitars earned it endless comparisons to vintage Big Star, Bandwagonesque is in every way a product of its own time - the thick, grungy sound of the Fannies' debut A Catholic Education remains intact for gems like "What You Do to Me" (arguably the most brilliantly simpleminded love song ever penned) and the instrumental "Satan," while the lyrics of other standout moments like "Star Sign" and "Alcohololiday" reflect a laissez faire irony and unassuming genius even more emblematic of the moment in question.

ALBUM FACTS

Genre: Christian Producers: Andy Anderson, Chris Stevens, and David Garcia Packaging Specs: Jewel Case

Description: Dove Award winner Group 1 Crew has been workin' hard on Planet G1C preparing their tasty collection of hot beats, killer hooks and clever lyrics aptly named Outta Space Love. It's a collection of songs that draws the listener in with the irresistible urban grooves and substantive lyrics that have become Group 1 Crew's calling card. It's packed with songs that'll be all over radio (first single "Walking on the Stars" is already racing up the CHR charts) and throughout the film/TV world ("Breakdown" is already featured prominently on E! network's "Kourtney & Khloe Take Miami"). Outta Space Love also features the song "Beautiful" which was a featured song on the 2009 Revolve Tour and will be the centerpiece of "Blanca's Boutique", her blog at group1crew.com.

Look for Group 1 Crew to push the envelope with this album as the music finds its way into places many CCM albums wouldn't have a chance to thrive. Manwell Reyes says, "We feel like an album should coexist within the Christian realm and benefit believers, but at the same time exist in the mainstream realm to inspire people who don't even believe in God or who have never listened to Christian music."

Genre: Rock Producers: Ian Mackintosh
Ben Braun

ARTIST & INFO

Hometown: Portland, OR Band Members: Ian Mackintosh & Ben Braun

It's an age-old story: Two music-obsessed young men move to the Pacific Northwest, form a band, and after toiling away for many wet, dark months in a homemade studio, emerge with an album... full of sunny, preternaturally catchy pop songs?! In the case of Mackintosh Braun, the duo comprised of multi-instrumentalist/producer Ian Mackintosh and bassist/keyboardist/producer Benjamin Braun, that's exactly what happened. Both guys are real audiophiles who have always wanted nothing more than to make a living playing music.

Ben was born in New York City but moved to Portland with his mom when he was nine. Ben's father is the longtime drummer for Hall & Oates ("yes they still tour," Ben says, "I get asked that a lot") and he instilled in his son an early love of all things music related. "He would take me up onstage and sit me behind him and put headphones on me," Ben recalls. "I thought that was so cool."

Ian was also brought up in a musical family that relocated to Portland. Like Ben, it was Ian's father who got him into music. "My dad was a singer-songwriter who gave it all up to raise a family," Ian recalls. "He taught me how to play guitar when I was eleven. We didn't have any money but my dad found a way to build a studio at our house."

They each found themselves drawn to the technical side of music: sampling, sequencing, and high-end production. Mesmerized equally by the joyful simplicity of the Bee Gees and the cerebral cool of Orchestral Manoeuvres in the Dark, they both felt this pull to make substantive music that showcased a deep range of influences but that you could also dance to. And it's this shared understanding of what music should be that brought them together."

"We want to bring a new take to dance music," Ian explains. "We want to bring songs to it. What used to happen in the 70's is that there would be songs and yet you would want to dance to the songs. Somehow we've lost that. We have a different thing with this album. I can't wait for people to hear it."

ALBUM FACTS

Genre: Rock Producers: Scott Humphrey, Tommy Lee Radio Formats: Active Rock, Modern Rock, Metal Focus Markets: NY, LA, Chicago, Philly, Boston, Seattle, Dallas, Minneapolis, DC, Salt Lake City, Denver, Cleveland, Detroit, Atlanta, Phoenix, Houston, & SF.

Description: The second Methods of Mayhem album, A Public Disservice Announcement, was the first truly collaborative effort an artist of Tommy's magnitude has ever dared to attempt. The concept came easy, the execution did not - it took time, technology, patience and dedication. The first step was to set the parameters.

Tommy and his team, including producer Scott Humphrey, singer-guitarist J3 and others, wrote and recorded the songs, which ran the gamut from hard rock anthems to ballads to dance tracks. Then they made the core components of each song available for download on www.thepublicrecord.com to anyone who wished to add their playing or otherwise re-interpret the music however they saw fit. Tommy listened to every single submission that was uploaded, chose the best, and integrated the actual audio tracks into the album's final cuts.

The album is led by the aggressive "Fight Song" as well as meoldic "Time Bomb"

ALBUM FACTS

Genre: Rock Producers: Serj Tankian Radio Formats: Active & Modern Rock

Description: Imperfect Harmonies has shaped up to be as powerful and musically eclectic as its predecessor. Once again, Tankian's album takes a multi-themed approach to the lyrics, which he describes as addressing the political, environmental, social, and personal.

"Elect the Dead is essentially a rock record with progressive melodic elements. Imperfect Harmonies could be classified as rock because it is punchy with many peaks throughout, but the instrumentation is somewhat different. Though there are live drums, bass, and some guitars, the driving aspects are electronic and orchestral. It's quite unique in its sound palette. This is, in essence, music that has sat in the vat and matured to a ripe sensation and is now ready to serve...The majority of the songs have this huge wall of sound presented in a way I've never heard before. It's not common to have a song that is both electronic and orchestral since one is synthetic and the other organic, but I found a way of meshing a lot of these colors together...My intentions have always been to make music that is creative, quality, and moving. I have never learned the static method of repeating myself musically whether in System or now. Each record I have made has been different musically, yet they all carry the same integral spirit." - SERJ TANKIAN

Genre: Country Guest Artist: Alan Jackson, Jimmy Buffett Producers: Keith Stegall and Zac Brown Radio Formats: Country

Description:

You Get What You Give features a genre-defying collection of songs that the band has been testing on the road over the past year. Stand out tracks include: the somber piano-driven early fan favorite "Colder Weather," the reggae-leaning, jam-inducing "Who Knows," and a harmony-laced lesson on the merits of chasing after love "As She's Walking Away."

Praised for the ability to blend "down-home country with bits of reggae, bluegrass and rock to create a high-quality musical stew" (USA Today), front man Zac Brown notes that the new album "is representative of where we are right now. It combines elements of our southern rock and country roots, but also stays true to our jam-band style musicianship from the live show."

You Get What You Give is the follow up to the band's double platinum-certified, major label debut 'The Foundation' (Atlantic), which is one of Billboard's Top 20 albums of 2009 and features the band's first four #1 singles.

ALL TIME LOW
MTV Unplugged

ALL TIME LOW stripped down their songs to just an essential heartbeat for a special MTV Unplugged performance. Shot in New York City during the summer of 2009, the band took their high-energy performance down a notch in a candle-lit studio for some fortunate fans who intently sang along. The CD/DVD contains a six-song acoustic set of brand-new stuff from Nothing Personal and favorites from So Wrong, It's Right, including "Damned If I Do Ya (Damned If I Don't)," "Dear Maria Count Me In," "Jasey Rae," "Weightless," "Coffee Shop Soundtrack," and "Remembering Sunday" (featuring Kate Voegele).
