KLAUS NOMI

Bavarian born Klaus Sperber emigrated to New York City in 1972, and soon became a staple in the East Village art scene, adopting the new last name of Nomi (fashioned after the popular science magazine Omni). After working on a production with Kristian Hoffman, whose band Mumps were playing Max's Kansas City and CBGB, the two began working together—with Hoffman writing originals and picking cover versions of popular songs that would showcase Nomi's multi-octave vocal range.

David Bowie hired Nomi as one his background singers for a 1979 performance on Saturday Night Live, and the exposure caught the eyes and ears of Bowie's label, RCA. Soon Kristian and Klaus began recording Nomi's debut album. Klaus Nomi appeared in 1981 featuring covers of Lou Christie's "Lightning Strikes," Leslie Gore's "You Don't Own Me," Chubby Checker's "The Twist," and Camille Saint-Saëns' "Samson And Delilah (Aria)," plus originals from Hoffman including "Nomi Song" and "Total Eclipse" (memorably performed in the 1981 film Urgh! A Music War).

Simple Man appeared the following year, featuring Hoffman's title track and covers of Doris Troy's "Just One Look" and "Ding Dong The Witch Is Dead from The Wizard Of Oz—plus songs from renaissance composers John Dowland and Henry Purcell. It would sadly be Nomi's last album of original material, following his AIDS-related death in 1983.

Encore . . . was released posthumously, collecting tracks from the first two albums, the Urgh! performance of "Total Eclipse," and three previously unissued tracks. In Concert (recorded at NYC's Hurrah club in 1979) arrived in 1986, containing Nomi's version of Donna Summer's "I Feel Love."

All four albums are now available together, packaged in a slipcase with the iconic Nomi logo, at a very special price.

THE TOXIC AVENGER – ORIGINAL SCORE BY BROOKE BLAIR AND WILL BLAIR

Mutant, in partnership with Lakeshore Records and Legendary Entertainment, is proud to present The Toxic Avenger — Original Motion Picture Soundtrack, featuring a wildly eclectic score and original songs by composers Brooke and Will Blair. In this unhinged reimagining of Lloyd Kaufman's cult classic, the brothers capture the chaos, the silliness, and the triumphant heart of the original Troma trilogy.

The guitar-drenched orchestral score careens from surfy crime-jazz and occult rock to Bossa Nova, classic superhero motifs, and an unhinged take on Mussorgsky's "Night on Bald Mountain" (featured in the original Toxic Avenger) — complete with burps, farts, and the Prague Philharmonic. The pair also deliver original songs, including the nu-rap/slop-rock hit "(We Are) Crazy and Dangerous" from on-screen goth villains The Killer Nutz, their B-side "My Baby is an Axe," and the classic Doo Wop ode to young lovers "The Good Things" by fictional '50s group The Whoopsie Dews.

Over 120 musicians in eight countries contributed to the soundtrack, including Medirecon. A generator recorded this 16-piece Kyiv-based string ensemble after Russian forces cut power to the city's power grid during the early days of the occupation. The year-long composing effort resulted in a soundtrack that's as fun, messy, and moving as the Troma films that inspired it.

"The original Toxie soundtrack was such a bonkers mash-up of styles," says Will Blair. "Dancey-pop songs would be followed by punk rock, then go immediately into big orchestral pieces, followed by weird electro score — and it not only worked, it became part of the Troma experience. We trusted it would work with Macon's version of Toxie, and we're grateful he cut us loose to throw everything we had at it."

Written and directed by the Blairs' older brother, Macon Blair, and starring Peter Dinklage, Jacob Tremblay, Elijah Wood, and Kevin Bacon, The Toxic Avenger follows janitor Winston Gooze, who — after a freak toxic accident — mutates into an unlikely hero battling corporate overlords and corruption to save his son and his community.

The album also comes complete with liner notes by writer/director Macon Blair as well as composers Brooke Blair and Will Blair, and is pressed on 140gm toxic black and green vinyl with glow-in-the-dark splatter and housed inside a silver mirrorboard jacket with glow-in-the-dark elements.

Mutant, in partnership with NEON, are proud to present the premiere physical media release of the soundtrack to TOGETHER.

Cornel Wilczek (Talk To Me, Bring Her Back) crafts an incredible score for this body horror future classic from director Michael Shanks, blending the organic and synthetic, merging them to create something new, mesmerising, calm, eerie yet beautiful and oddly melodic. Disembodied voices flow in and out of soundscapes made up of traditional acoustic instruments, strings, and synthesisers. At first listen, the score seems very minimalist, but with repeated listening, it reveals these amazing earworms that stick in your mind. It's a truly lovely, otherworldly listen, ideal for late nights and headphones.

Mutant, in partnership with WaterTower Music are proud to present the premiere physical release of Mick Giacchino's score to the critically acclaimed and Award-winning limited series THE PENGUIN.

Following the events of the 2022 feature film THE BATMAN, THE PENGUIN has the unenviable task of bringing a prestige television elevation to one of the most iconic comic-book villains of all time. Thankfully Mick Giacchino (STAR WARS: SKELETON CREW), who did additional music for the film as well, found a way to bridge the gap from the more heightened comic-book elements of the previous chapter, and grounds them in the grimy lived in character study that showrunner Lauren LeFranc and executive producer Matt Reeves have crafted for this series.

Frantic, chaotic like the titular character itself, Mick's score brings together elevated string quartets and percussion made from literal trashcans, waltzing and occasionally crashing between worlds of high society and low-level crime. It's a brilliantly designed score that rests comfortably in the cannon of great Batman-music, while playing with the conventions of what these types of stories can be.

DESPISED ICON

Established in 2002, Montreal deathcore pioneers DESPISED ICON return with their seventh full-length album, Shadow Work. The album marks a significant chapter for a band whose core lineup has remained largely unchanged since its inception, allowing them to stay grounded in the sound and spirit they helped define.

Their first new music in six years, the album stands as DESPISED ICON's most fine-tuned and dynamic effort to date, balancing relentless speed, crushing grooves, and morbid melodies, while remaining true to their signature blend of extreme death metal and hardcore grit.

Produced by the band's own Alex Erian and Eric Jarrin, Shadow Work was mixed and mastered by Christian Donaldson (CRYPTOPSY, SHADOW OF INTENT, SIGNS OF THE SWARM), with artwork by Eliran Kantor (HATEBREED, THY ART IS MURDER, CAVALERA). Featuring guest vocals by Matthew Honeycutt (KUBLAI KHAN TX), Scott Ian Lewis (CARNIFEX) and Tom Barber (CHELSEA GRIN, DARKO US), Shadow Work will be released on October 31, 2025, via Nuclear Blast Records. Nina Simone a single woman the complete elektra recordings

Nina Simone burst into the world with 1959's Little Girl Blue, and music would never be the same. For over five decades, Nina entertained, enthralled, and educated listeners across her extraordinary recording and performance career.

After a triumphant concert at New York's Carnegie Hall in 1992, Nina was approached by Elektra A&R executive Michael Alago (whose previous work at the label included Tracy Chapman and Metallica). When asked if Nina was ready to record again, she replied, "Get me the money... then we can talk!" Modeled around two of Simone's favorites, Frank Sinatra's A Man Alone (The Words And Music Of Rod McKuen) and Billie Holiday's Lady In Satin—with the common element that both were recorded with full orchestral accompaniment, the sessions began.

Backed by a 50-piece orchestra, Simone recorded the material that would comprise A Single Woman with producer Andre Fischer (Natalie Cole's then-husband and former drummer for the band Rufus.) The ten tracks chosen from the sessions were revelatory, weaving songs about love in the style only Nina Simone could conceive and deliver. Simone recorded more material during the sessions, including covers of Bob Dylan, Prince, The Beatles, and Bob Marley, pointing to a potential follow up, but—sadly, A Single Woman would be her final studio album before her passing in 2003.

A Single Woman was reissued in 2006, adding seven of those performances left behind. Now, four more previously unissued recordings from those sessions have been added to create A Single Woman: The Complete Elektra Recordings—21 tracks on CD and double-LP. Newly remastered, this collection also contains new liner notes from the British Ambassador of Soul, David Nathan, outlining both the recording of the album, but also recounting his nearly three-decade relationship with Dr. Simone—beginning when he formed the UK Nina Simone Appreciation Society in 1965.

Experience this icon's final studio recordings in the most comprehensive way with A Single Woman: The Complete Elektra Recordings.

INFO

Break what breaks you: Just a few months after the spectacular relaunch of "I Just Wanna Be A Sound", Berlin's rock royalty Kadavar are back with "K.A.D.A.V.A.R." - a kind of second debut album. On it, the band combines the riff-lust of their early days with the creativity of the new four-piece constellation. And can happily report: The fun of music is back for good.

The spectrum ranges from the cheeky slacker rock of "Stick It" to the droning juggernaut of "K.A.D.A.V.A.R." and the thrash metal club (!) "Total Annihilation". Kadavar have probably never sounded more diverse and at the same time more archetypal. But that's the way it is when every band member contributes songs and ideas on an equal footing. At the end of the day, whether you call it hard rock, retro rock, classic rock, vintage rock, doom rock or just goddamn rock music, it doesn't matter: it rocks. And how. "K.A.D.A.V.A.R." sounds familiar and new at the same time, paying tribute to yesterday without being stuck in it. And is one thing above all: an album overflowing with the joy of playing.

CLOCK DVA

White Souls in Black Suits (2025 Remaster)

Street Date: 11/7/2025

Available for first time in over 35 years, Clock DVA's White Souls in Black Suits - originally released in 1980 as a limited-run cassette on Throbbing Gristle's Industrial Records - now returns in a newly remastered edition on grey vinyl and CD, reissued via The Grey Area of Mute and expanded with four bonus tracks from the same era.

Led by the visionary Adi Newton, Clock DVA remains one of the most enigmatic and shape-shifting acts to emerge from Sheffield. Their catalog spans mutant funk, noir jazz, and coldwave electronics, with White Souls in Black Suits, paired with the additional tracks, offering an insight into the early morphology of their sound. The album features a lineup including Newton (voice, synth, clarinet, bowed electric guitar, and tape treatment), founding member Steven James Turner (bass treatment), David J. Hammond (guitar treatment), Charlie Collins (saxophone, flute & percussion), Roger Quail (percussion) and Simon M. Elliott-Kemp (synth).

Recorded at Cabaret Voltaire's Western Works studio, the album is loosely structured, largely improvised, and steeped in the influence of Sheffield's early industrial and goth scene. It evokes a world of surveillance, obsession, and psychological decay, a debut that set the tone for Clock DVA's ever-evolving vision and an essential record of the original industrial era.

Available on strictly limited double grey vinyl with booklet and CD. This Fall, Clock DVA will embark on a North American tour alongside Front Line Assembly.

'The Only Heaven You'll Know' is the third album from UK metalcore stalwarts, CASKETS. After a sold-out tour in Europe and the UK in early 2025, followed by a massive US tour supporting MEMPHIS MAY FIRE, CASKETS return with 11 new songs filled with crushing riffs and soaring melodic lines. This album is the natural evolution of the band's sound, and an indication of their growth and sonic maturity throughout the years.
