THE GLOW OF LOVE

Goody Music Production introduced their sound in 1978 with the intention of conquering the U.S. market. Commenting on the unusual fusion of Italian musicians with American vocalists, Billboard noted "Despite its foreign origins, the use of lots of horns and conga rhythms take this away from the cookie cutter Eurodisco mold and give it character. The mix is smoother than most, and there's a tendency towards soul throughout."

Recording for what would become The Glow Of Love began in November of 1979. Its first single, "A Lover's Holiday," featured vocals from Zachary Sanders (the voice of Schoolhouse Rock's "Verb: That's What's Happening" and "Electricity, Electricity"). It quickly rose to #1 on Billboard's Disco chart, #4 on the Hot Soul Singles chart and #40 on the Hot 100.

Jocelyn Brown (then Shaw) handled vocals on "It's A Girl's Affair" and "Angel In My Pocket." She previously scored top ten hits on the Disco chart via her work with Musique and Inner Life, and would reach #2 on the R&B charts with her own "Somebody Else's Guy" four years later. Other tracks included "Searching" and "The Glow Of Love," with vocals from Luther Vandross, then just an in-demand session singer. Vandross' star-making performance on the songs launched his groundbreaking solo career (beginning with the double-Platinum Never Too Much the following year), and "The Glow Of Love" would become the bedrock for Janet Jackson's 2001 smash "All For You."

The Glow Of Love reached #10 on the Billboard R&B Albums chart and #29 on the Top 200. Now, the Gold-certified The Glow Of Love returns, remastered and expanded with four bonus remixes, including the promo-only long version of the title track with Vandross' soaring vocals.

New liner notes from author Tim Dillinger, outlining the band's genesis and the recording of the album.

Hear the album Record World hailed as "a winner," and England's Sunday Sun called "the human face of disco." Experience The Glow Of Love.

Like an Ever Flowing Stream is the debut album by Swedish death metal band DISMEMBER, released on 28 May 1991 through Nuclear Blast.

DISMEMBER recorded a few self-released demos before their 1990 demo cassette Reborn In Blasphemy, featuring Matti Kärki on vocals and ENTOMBED's Nicke Andersson handling most of the lead guitar parts, was picked up by Nuclear Blast Records for a wider release. In 1991, their first album Like An Everflowing Stream saw the light of day, recorded by Thomas Skogsberg at the now legendary Sunlight Studios and featuring Richard Cabeza on bass. The album is considered to be a classic in the death metal genre.

TESTAMENT

With every generation comes a great war. It may take years to fully reveal itself, but the seasoned warrior knows preparation is everything. Para Bellum, TESTAMENT's fourteenth album and first in five years, stands as both a battle cry and an observation of humanity's uneasy alliance with its own creations, reflecting the modern chaos through music that's urgent, sharp, and unflinchingly human.

HAAi

HUMANiSE

Street Date: 10/10/25

HAAi returns with her bold and brilliant second album, HUMANiSE, exploring the sweet spot between machine-led dystopia and emotion-filled utopia. Available on limited edition crystal clear double vinyl packaged in a gatefold sleeve and limited edition CD.

In all of her work, Teneil has always sought to conquer new frontiers in electronic music, and on the new album, she's drilling deeper into the grid. HUMANiSE reckons with what it is to be human in an increasingly digital world, as AI threatens to eclipse everything and our screens separate us from each other. The result is an ambitious and thrilling epic: embodying a sonic step up, and a distinct evolution from her 2022 debut, Baby, We're Ascending.

Voices – both real and digitised – play a huge part on HUMANiSE, alongside ideas of community and a sense of belonging. She has returned to work with friends including Jon Hopkins, Alexis Taylor of Hot Chip, singer Obi Franky, rapper KAM-BU, artist Kaiden Ford, and poet James Massiah, as well as two choirs: Trans Voices with choir leader ILĀ and a gospel choir led by Wendi Rose. Having spent years behind the decks, HAAi also brings her own voice to the forefront in a powerful shift toward vulnerability and self-expression. Her vocals, stunningly delicate, give a newfound dimension to her kinetic productions.

The album's concept became clear while HAAi was in the studio with Hopkins. The pair were playing with a vocal harmonizer plug-in with a function called 'Humanize'. For HAAi, a light went off: "The idea of something completely synthetic trying to make an actual person sound more human is crazy," she says. HAAi blurs these extremes throughout the album: digitising voices, layering them to hazy effect, and even using an AI text-to-speech to generate her voice. But, ultimately, she concludes that experience and memory – what makes us truly human – cannot be replaced.

From the euphoric opener "Satellite," to BBC Radio 6 Music A-listed track "Can't Stand To Lose," and genre-smashing cuts like "Shapeshift," the album is filled with exhilarating sonic twists and deeply personal lyrics. HUMANiSE is a powerful, emotionally charged leap forward: a celebration of community, self-expression and humanity.

On the sixth and latest PERTURBATOR album, Age of Aquarius — James Kent's first for the renowned metal label Nuclear Blast — he offers up a more propulsive spin on his moody early work, showcasing his most confident, plainly beautiful, and thematically refined music to date. Where his previous album, 2021's Lustful Sacraments, was about bad habits and addiction, Age of Aquarius explores how individualism, conflict, and war are interrelated and dominant societal forces. Both brutal and sublime, the album feels like the musical equivalent of a scream into the existential void.
