Mutant in collaboration with Amazon MGM Studios will release physical editions of The Lord of the Rings: The Rings of Power (Season Two: Amazon Original Series Soundtrack) on August 23rd, tied to the highly-anticipated return of the series later this month. The full episodic score for the second season of the Amazon Original series was composed by Emmy® Award-winner Bear McCreary (Da Vinci's Demons). The soundtrack will also include two new songs featuring renowned vocalists Rufus Wainwright and Jens Kidman, respectively. Digital and streaming of the Season Two soundtrack will be available on August 23rd, and on that same date, vinyl can be pre-ordered at Amazon Music. A special Collector's Edition will also be available for pre-order exclusively on Amazon Music.

For the epic first season of Prime Video's The Lord of the Rings: The Rings of Power, composer Bear McCreary wove a tapestry of symphonic orchestra, bombastic percussion, and folk instruments from across Europe and North Africa, combined with solo vocalists and choirs singing in the iconic languages of J.R.R. Tolkien's books. For the gripping second season, McCreary has built atop that foundation with dynamic new themes and colors, including Bulgarian women's choir and gadulka for Rhûn, children's choir for the pastoral city of Eregion, Hardanger fiddle for new character Estrid, and deathly whispers for the terrifying Barrow-wights.

Mutant, in partnership with Back Lot Music, are proud to present the premiere physical release of Grammy-and Emmy-nominated composer Benjamin Wallfisch's score to the hit film Twisters.

Not to be confused with Twisters: The Album - the various artists, country pop compilation - the original motion picture soundtrack to Twisters exclusively features Benjamin Wallfisch's beautiful, romantic and action packed score. From the opening notes of the first track "Nature's Masterpiece" the tone is set for a score that marvels in awe of the beauty of the American landscape, and the powers that mother nature contains.

"It was such a thrill and joy to work with director Lee Isaac Chung on Twisters. Even in the most intense and powerful action pieces he still manages to always make it feel personal and about the characters." says composer Wallfisch. "The sheer power and majesty of the storms is always grounded in us rooting for Kate, Tyler, Javi and all the others, and finding a way to capture that balance and tone was the main starting point for the score. As a huge fan of the 1996 movie, it was an honor to have been invited to be a part of this incredible film."

ZOMBI, released in 1978, is actually the international version of George A. Romero's DAWN OF THE DEAD, edited by Dario and Claudio Argento. This movie features an amazing soundtrack created by the legendary Italian prog-rock band Goblin, with its iconic lineup of Simonetti, Morante, Pignatelli, Marangolo, and Guarini. The music is a perfect combination of sinister synths, rock guitar riffs, and driving tribal percussion, blending electronic and acoustical elements to create an unforgettable score. The band brings out the suspense on-screen, adding to Romero's action-packed set pieces. Interestingly, some of these cues have been repurposed in other Italian exploitation films, which is a testament to Goblin's enduring influence among genre directors

Mutant, in partnership with NEON, are proud to present the premiere physical release of the original soundtrack to Cuckoo.

Tillman Singer's follow-up to Luz is an incredibly intense and unique thriller set in the Bavarian alps, blending elements of horror and science fiction.

Composer Simon Waskow returns to score Singer's sophomore feature, adding a distinct voice to the film. His music becomes a supporting character to the action on screen, transitioning from the intimate and delicate to neck snappingly loud and direct as needed. This is a truly masterful score that deserves to be played as loud as possible.

This limited edition soundtrack features "Gretchen's Song" with vocals by the film's star Hunter Schaefer.

For fans of: Hans Zimmer, Nils Frahm, Max Richter,

Dustin O'Halloran

Hometown: London, UK

Street Date: 29th November 2024

On 29th November, Sasha returns to Night Time Stories with his latest project, the score to Da Vinci Genius – an immersive exhibition celebrating Leonardo Da Vinci, the Italian Renaissance polymath.

His 2016 release Scene Delete on the same label was Sasha as you've never heard him before: an adventurous imaginary movie score, showcasing a bold left-turn for the veteran DJ/producer. Fast forward to 2024, Sasha delves into classical music, combined with his renowned deep sonics. Using his electronic music expertise and movie passion, he enlisted Scene Delete veterans Dennis White, Dave Gardner, and Barry Jamieson for this complex project.

"I've never written music for a project like this before, so it was really exciting working with Flora and Fauna Visions (FFV) on this incredible brief," Sasha. The show explores Da Vinci's mind, blending his iconic works with digital technology to create a stunning visual experience, and the music needed to support that.

Sasha's team aimed to capture the atmosphere of film scores they love, inspired by composers like Nils Frahm, Jon Hopkins, Steve Reich, Vangelis, and Jean Michel Jarre. They also took cues from Stanley Kubrick's classical music use in films and modern composers like Hans Zimmer, blending classical movements with electronic sounds as well as incorporated medieval choral music from Renaissance composer Josquin des Pres, which influenced some ambient sections. Guided by FFV's mood boards. "It was a different, challenging way of working, but I hope people think it's one of the most accomplished things we've ever done." Sasha.

From start to finish, compositions like 'Mosaic,' 'Equality,' and 'Clouds' are woven into soft melodies and emotive timbres, while 'Super Hero (with Sentre)' and 'Into The Metaverse' return to more familiar sounds.

With Da Vinci Genius, Sasha is at home in unfamiliar territory, blending classical and modern elements. The show debuted in Berlin in 2021, transferred to Amsterdam, and will wow audiences in Florida and India later this year.

ELECTRONIC MUSIC IMPROVISATIONS VOL. 3 SUNROOF

Street Date: 11/29/24

Sunroof, aka Daniel Miller & Gareth Jones, release their brand new album, Electronic Music Improvisations Volume 3, via Mute's Parallel Series. Out on limited edition transparent orange vinyl (limited to 1000 worldwide) and CD formats.

Electronic Music Improvisations Volume 3 is a collection of nine improvised tracks, recorded using the duo's Eurorack modular systems, and builds upon the self-imposed parameters laid out on their 2021 debut.

Daniel Miller, the Founder and Chairman of Mute, and Gareth Jones, producer and engineer, notable for working with Depeche Mode, Einstürzende Neubauten, Erasure and Yann Tiersen, have been collaborating for four decades. Although neither dwell on their past work, preferring to constantly explore new ways to create, Miller and Mute's legacy is given a nod on the track "Splendid" which opens with the distinct hiss of cassette over a rhythmic heartbeat before oscillators burst and collide. This track was recorded using the original 4-track TEAC that Miller picked up second hand in the late 70s and recorded The Normal's "Warm Leatherette" 7" on.

This record follows their debut Electronic Music Improvisations Vol.1 (2021) and second album Electronic Music Improvisations Vol.2 (2023), along with their Bandcamp exclusive release Electronic Music Improvisations Live in London and Frankfurt, which captured their live shows at Frankfurt's Museum of Modern Electronic Music and London's IKLECTIK.

PRAISE FOR VOLUME 1 + 2:

"Impending doom seemingly lurks just beyond every throb and sine wave sweep... Roll on Volume 3" – Electronic Sound

"... beeps and bleeps so beautifully, as if the synthesizer had been invented only yesterday... a (also tongue-in-cheek) homage to the early sound researchers, but also a reference in the direction of the electronic present." – Musikexpress

"... forging complex, intricate modular synth ragas, brooding drone and burbling loops... all imbued with the same freedom that first stimulated Miller and Jones four decades ago" – MOJO

Hilton's last album, 2006's Paris Hilton, landed in the Top 10 on the Billboard 200 and featured the RIAA Gold-certified hit single, "Stars Are Blind". A music video for the album's focus track, "Bad Bitch Academy", will be released in September. In October, Paris will perform headline shows at The Palladium in LA and at Irving Plaza in NYC. iHeart will be running a month-long pre-promote campaign including broadcast, streaming, podcast, and editorial, focusing on Bad Bitch Academy. The campaign will feature liners from Paris on the song process (iHeart's campaign for lead single I'm Free drove 59M on-air impressions).

"I wanted this album to be an escape. To take people to a happy place where they can heal and party in equal measure. Where you can feel safe, feel empowered and most of all, be your own unapologetic icon." – Paris Hilton Christopher Cross burst onto the music scene in 1979 with his self-titled debut which included classic singles like “Ride Like The Wind” (with Michael McDonald on backing vocals), “Say You’ll Be Mine (with Nicolette Larson), “Never Be The Same,” and the gigantic smash “Sailing.” The songs flew up the charts and remain ever-present on the airwaves to this day. The album and singles garnered six Grammy nominations, winning five (a feat not replicated by a new artist until nearly four decades later by Billie Eilish). He continued to dominate with “Arthur’s Theme (Best That You Can Do)” in the coming years, garnering more Grammy nods, an Academy Award, and another number one single.

In 2007, Cross recorded a Christmas album with Danny O’Lannerghty (Amy Grant, Phil Keaggy) and Michael Omartian (producer of Cross’ acclaimed debut and beyond, as well as smash hits from Donna Summer, Rod Stewart, Kenny Loggins, Peter Cetera, and more). The festive album featured originals and Christopher’s take on classics like “Do You Hear What I Hear,” “Have Yourself A Merry Little Christmas,” and “Christmas Time Is Here” (from A Charlie Brown Christmas). A Christopher Cross Christmas became a holiday staple.

Now, A Christopher Cross Christmas returns for 2024 on CD.

It’s time to fire up the stereo and enjoy the season. In one of his originals, Christopher asks “Does It Feel Like Christmas.” With A Christopher Cross Christmas, it certainly does.

BUY! HERE’S WHY!

- Christmas release from the Oscar and multiple-Grammy winner.
- A holiday classic back in print for the first time in over a decade.
- Packaging includes new artwork.

PLASTIKMAN

Musik (30th Anniversary Edition)

Street Date: 12/6/2024

In celebration of its 30th anniversary, Plastikman, aka Richie Hawtin, has remastered his groundbreaking second album, Musik, from the original tapes for a new limited bio-vinyl edition.

The record was first released in November 1994 through NovaMute and Plus 8, following the debut Plastikman album, Sheet One (1993). A masterclass in minimal techno, Musik quickly propelled Hawtin to new levels of success. The release followed Plastikman's first-ever live performance in a black vinyl-encased room at a semi-derelict Packard Plant in Detroit, where Hawtin was central to the burgeoning underground scene.

Before the full album hit the shelves, the track "Plastique" (which was later described by Q as "...the flipside to Hawtin's early singles, all ticking percussion, feline acid tweaks, and cushioned sub-bass") set the stage for a more dance floor-friendly album, albeit one with an unsettling and sinister side.

The album, described by The Guardian as "music as you've never heard it before" and by The Wire, who made it one of their Albums of the Year, as "...a masterpiece", defined a moment in techno that still echoes today.

Now, 30 years later, the album has been remastered from the original tapes, reminding us why Plastikman is a name that still resonates and that the album's intensity – on and off the dance floor – has lost none of its potency in the intervening years.

Mutant, in partnership with Lakeshore Records and Searchlight Pictures are proud to present the premiere physical release of Michael Giacchino's score to Taika Waititi's 2023 film Next Goal Wins.

As with their acclaimed collaboration Jojo Rabbit, Giacchino finds himself thriving in the tonally singular sandbox that only Waititi can create. Giacchino is absolutely in his element in American Samoa, mixing heavy amounts of percussion and synth to carefully capture the energy of the island nation, playing triumphantly to the needs of a sports-comedy while never denying the melancholy hidden underneath.

This premiere physical release is strictly limited to 500 units, features a package designed by Mutant co-founder Mo Shafeek, pressed on 140 gram Neon Pink vinyl
