DAN Fogelberg & TIM Weisberg

BUY! HERE'S WHY!

- 30th anniversary reissue on CD, and on Vinyl for the first time.
- Follow up to the platinum-selling Twin Sons Of Different Mothers.
- Mastered by multiple Grammy winner Michael Graves.
- Lacquers cut by Jeff Powell at Take Out Vinyl/Sam Phillips Recording Service.

NO RESEMBLANCE WHATSOEVER

After being discovered by Irving Azoff, Illinois born singer-songwriter Dan Fogelberg moved to Nashville and began his recording career. His first four albums have achieved either platinum or double-platinum certification, including his fourth, Nether Lands—which included appearances by members of the Eagles, JD Souther, and flautist Tim Weisberg. Weisberg's career began as a studio musician and he released his first solo album in 1971, even appearing on The Midnight Special.

In 1978, Fogelberg and Weisberg collaborated and released Twin Sons Of Different Mothers. The album featured the Top 25 hit "The Power Of Gold," and sold over a million copies. The two would continue to write and record separately, with Fogelberg logging another two gold and two double-platinum releases, until the pair reunited in 1995 to record No Resemblance Whatsoever.

While the album's title and artwork playfully referenced their previous release, No Resemblance Whatsoever displayed the musical growth both Fogelberg and Weisberg had achieved and brought back to their new effort. AllMusic said "Follow-ups to albums that were as successful and acclaimed as Fogelberg and Weisberg's first collaboration often seem forced or simply don't replicate the magic of the past. This one builds on the original project and explores new musical avenues while keeping fans hoping another recording by the two will occur in the future."

Mastered by multiple Grammy-winner Michael Graves and with lacquers cut by Jeff Powell at Take Out Vinyl/Sam Phillips Recording Service, No Resemblance Whatsoever returns for its 30th anniversary on CD and for the first time on LP!

An ocean of water has passed under the Zero 7 bridge since we originally issued this collection of music. In 2002, when this was first issued, they'd recently been nominated for the Mercury Music Prize for their brilliant debut album, Simple Things, as well as being a nominee for Best Newcomer at the 2002 Brit Awards. Their third album, The Garden, was nominated for a Grammy in 2007.

Since then, Zero 7 have become an active touring live band, made some incredible music and judiciously chosen remixes, like Terry Callier's 'Love Theme From Spartacus'. Their old RAK studios colleague Nigel Godrich once told them, "Your great records become the Sistine Chapels of music in a sea of affordable accommodation". It's fair to say they've got a few Sistines under their belt.

The selection is compilation perfection – and you seem to agree. Such is the desirability of the original vinyl edition, it's now selling for over a ton. You can expect to find the Stylistics' soul classic, 'People Make The World Go Round' and the rare groove bomb produced by Roy Ayers, 'You Can't Turn Me Away' by Sylvia Striplin. Don Blackman's 'Holding You, Loving You' is included. This tune was sampled by Slum Village on 'Go Ladies' who also make an appearance here with 'Jealousy', as does Herbert's boompty-boomp rub of M. Gainsbourg's 'Bonnie & Clyde'.

All of this goodness for how much?! Bargain! Keep the rest of the money for a session in a floatation tank, just one of the better ways we can think of consuming this vinyl edition. As they say in football, "form is temporary, class is permanent": Zero 7: class personified.

Conceptualized as a project to hold fans over until their forthcoming second studio album due next year, 'Get The Message' is a 4-track opus that positions the band in a more introspective and meditative space. Eschewing the brassy and exuberant sound of their previous work, the new EP notably beholds more of a minimalist slant.

Gentler in mood, 'Get The Message' finds the band experimenting with new sonic territories via modes of psychedelic soul, Afro-rock, dub and funk. Sonically taking cues from the likes of Solange, Blood Orange, Sun Ra, Cymande and the 1970s Nigerian psych-rock band Ofege.

Remarking on the band's musical growth and evolution the last few years, Onome Edgeworth, the band's percussionist said: "Our tastes are richer and more developed. We're now creating from a completely different viewpoint and it's been quite freeing"

Created under the guise of functioning as an intentional vessel for joy, the heart of 'Get The Message' is concerned about the need for community, connection and relationships of all forms.

Speaking further on the humanizing motivations behind the EP which was largely borne from its opening track 'Higher', the band's co-founder and trumpeter, Sheila Maurice-Grey said: "That song is a mantra. With the repeated lyrics, we were setting the intention and the tone of what we wanted to do with the EP which is to be a balm for people. Being a voice of hope, comfort in a time where the world isn't always promoting positive energy, unity and togetherness".

Mutant, in partnership with Lakeshore Records and Searchlight Pictures are proud to present the premiere physical release of Michael Giacchino's score to Taika Waititi's 2023 film Next Goal Wins.

As with their acclaimed collaboration Jojo Rabbit, Giacchino finds himself thriving in the tonally singular sandbox that only Waititi can create. Giacchino is absolutely in his element in American Samoa, mixing heavy amounts of percussion and synth to carefully capture the energy of the island nation, playing triumphantly to the needs of a sports-comedy while never denying the melancholy hidden underneath.

This premiere physical release is strictly limited to 500 units, features a package designed by Mutant co-founder Mo Shafeek, pressed on 140 gram Neon Pink vinyl

End Of Green have re-recorded their legendary debut "Infinity"

End Of Green have re-recorded their legendary debut "Infinity". Almost 30 years later, the band is returning to its droning roots - and is setting the course for the future with a new deal with Reaper Entertainment.

With their stoner goth, End Of Green placed themselves in their very own pigeonhole right from the start in 1996. The legendary debut "Infinity", released by Nuclear Blast at the time, is a massive bridge between the gothic doom walls of Type O Negative and the droning desert air of Kyuss. Big songs, lots of reverb and plenty of oomph, somehow lamenting like the weeping marble statue in the cemetery and yet nonchalantly fucked up like a drinker after a successful night at the bar. And yes, singer Michelle Darkness sounds like he's singing to us from a musty crypt. Like the Lost Boys, only with guitars.

The band calls it all "Depressed Subcore" - probably because they don't really know what else to call it. Metal, rock, goth, alternative... somehow the Swabians have it all. It rocks, like hell even. It has coolness and vibe. It mourns. It sits between the chairs in such a way that it's a joy. 30 years later, End Of Green have re-recorded this monument between depression and hedonism. And the result is every bit as spectacular and special as you'd imagine.

"It all started for us with 'Infinity'," says singer Darkness. "This album is the starting point of a 30-year journey. This band is my life, I can't and won't say it any other way. Without this band, without my boys, I wouldn't exist. It's all about the music for me. That's why this new recording was a very emotional experience for me. It's probably my most important album." With "Twinfinity", End Of Green are also officially entering a new era. Suffering, as End Of Green also show on this spectacular new recording, can certainly be fun.

MICHAEL HUTCHENCE

ONE WAY/SAVE MY LIFE

For fans of INXS, Michael Hutchence and 80's Rock!

Michael Kelland Hutchence was the co-founder, lead singer, and lyricist of the rock band INXS from 1977 until his death in 1997. The band sold over 50 million records worldwide and was inducted into the ARIA Hall of Fame in 2001.

A decade or so after Michael's death a number of unreleased ideas surfaced in a tape locker in London. This was material Michael's IP company had financed and that he had been developing for his solo endeavor. In going through the ideas, it became apparent this would be something worth exploring, starting with "Friction" and what became "One-Way". Producer Danny Saber (Rolling Stones, Ozzy Osbourne, Madonna, Seal, etc...) began the process of producing finished masters.

The result is this Limited Edition Red vinyl picture disc with the aforementioned "One Way" and b-side "Save My Life". This is a true piece of musical history and will forever solidify Michael Kelland Hutchence as the brilliant singer/songwriter he is.

Mutant, in conjunction with Milan Records and NEON, is proud to release the premiere physical release of LONGLEGS (ORIGINAL MOTION PICTURE SOUNDTRACK) with music by ZILGI.

The album features an original score written by Zilgi for director Osgood Perkins' horrifying new thriller following an FBI agent searching for a deranged serial killer. As disturbing and all-consuming as a nightmare, LONGLEGS required a soundscape as gripping as its onscreen story, prompting Zilgi to craft a palette of dark, foreboding synth work, warped instrumentation and subliminal sound design elements. Working closely with sound designer and editor Eugenio Battaglia, who contributes two tracks to the album, the resulting soundtrack is unsettling, uncomfortable and utterly riveting. Zilgi has crafted a genuinely terrifying listen that mixes soundscapes, electronics, and discordant rock to create a portal to hell that will stay with you long after the needle leaves the record. Hail Satan. Featuring package design by Greg Ruth and Spencer Hickman.

*Physical Media exclusive

Mutant, in collaboration with Walt Disney Records, is proud to present the premiere physical media release of Andrea Datzman's score to Disney and Pixar's hit animated film "Inside Out 2."

Expanding upon the musical landscape created by Michael Giacchino for the original film, Datzman explores our heroines' passionate new feelings in the spirit befitting of a teenager. The sweeping emotional earworm piano melodies you've known and loved from the first film collide with the new, unanswerable questions posed by the piercing stings of Anxiety. Together her new emotions act as a rock and roll backline, filled in with the swelling strings of her core memories - crafting a perfect soundtrack to Riley's dreams of fitting in.

"The score to "Inside Out 2" is as playful and unpredictable as you'd expect for a story about the brain of a teenager," says Mo Shafeek, Mutant Co-Founder. "Andrea Datzman brilliantly blends Riley's past (the iconic melodies of the first film) time with Riley's present, creating a score so dynamic and infectious, it feels like it could be blasted from the speakers at a stadium pop concert."

This limited edition physical media release is pressed on 2x 140gm color vinyl, housed in a gatefold sleeve featuring artwork by Nicole Gustafsson, and features liner notes by composer Andrea Datzman.
