THE BRIAN SETZER ORCHESTRA

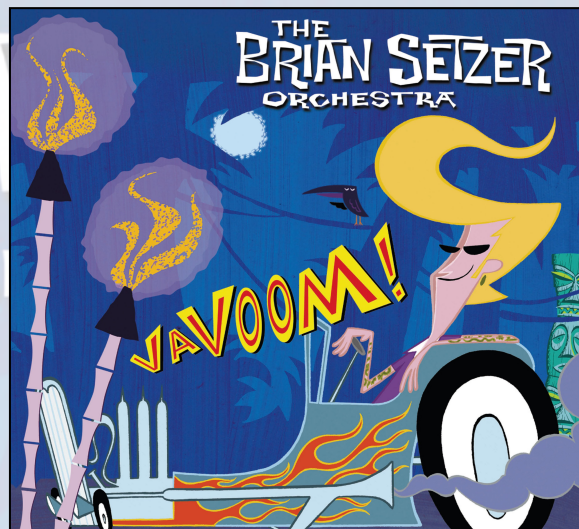

VAVOOM!

For fans of The Stray Cats, Brian Setzer, Swing and Big Band!

The Brian Setzer Orchestra (sometimes known by its initials BSO) is a swing and jump blues band formed in 1992 by Stray Cats frontman Brian Setzer. In 1994 they released their debut album which was followed up in 1996 with Guitar Slinger. In 1998, for their breakout album The Dirty Boogie, the group covered Louis Prima's "Jump, Jive an' Wail", which originally appeared on Prima's 1957 album The Wildest!. The BSO's follow up single, appearing on the album Vavoom!, was "Gettin' in the Mood."

Now get Vavoom! from the Brian Setzer Orchestra for the first time on vinyl since 2000. Remastered on 180g vinyl in two amazing Limited-Edition Colors with expanded gatefold. There are only 300 of The Americano and 700 of the Caravan Yellow. Vavoom! is the fourth release from the Brian Setzer Orchestra and features "Gettin' In The Mood".

Setzer uses his Rock-a-Billy style in league with some of the best standards from the big band era to produce some very cool finger snapping, get-up-and-dance tunes. This is Setzer's interpretation of the swing era, and he has made classic songs of a bygone era accessible again to a new audience. With classics like "In The Mood" and "Mack The Knife".

Dance Therapy ORA THE MOLECULE

Street Date: 3/21/25

Mute US is excited to announce the release of Dance Therapy, the sophomore album from worldwide signing Nora Schjelderup, aka Ora the Molecule. The album will be available on black vinyl and digital formats on March 21st.

Dance Therapy follows a transformative period for Schjelderup, whose DJ career took off post-pandemic. She has shared the stage with fellow Norwegian legends like Todd Terje and Lindstrøm, and opened for Røyksopp, earning her the title of Norway's queen of disco. Inspired by her DJ sets, '70s sci-fi sounds and Italo-disco, Dance Therapy is a retro-futuristic fever dream which Schjelderup crafted in a remote cabin in the woods while navigating a series of severe losses. "I had a lot of pain," she reflects. "This was my own way of dealing with it. A way to get energy back in the body."

Much of Dance Therapy's first half features ebullient, infectious dance anthems including the singles "Intergalactic Dance" and "Løveskatt" while the second half grapples with grief, mortality and heartbreak with reflective tracks like "Cyber Fever," "Evig Ung," and "New Years."

The album announcement comes alongside the airing of Schjelderup's debut performance on NRK, Norway's largest media broadcasting company.

Obliteration is imminent: As The World Dies return with their triumphant second offering. "Nebula" is a colossal lesson in crushing death metal and cosmic mysticism. "'Nebula' is the quintessence of what As The World Dies is all about," band leader and scene veteran Scott Fairfax says. "We pushed our musical boundaries and wanted to create an album that was both brutal and thought-provoking. It's heavier, darker and more profound than anything we've done before."

While we go about our petty business, leading our small and insignificant life under the sun, death is hurtling towards us at breakneck speed: An asteroid named Apophis will come in very close contact with planet Earth in 2029, one day it will surely hit earth! Aptly named after the Egyptian God of dissolution, darkness and chaos, it has the power to obliterate life as we know it. Seriously: it doesn't get any more death metal than this. Scott Fairfax is well aware of that. The death metal veteran of Memoriam fame is back with his other vehicle of death and destruction, As The World Dies. Three years after their earth-shattering and star-studded debut "Agonist", he's taking things into space with "Nebula", a cosmic death metal requiem of colossal proportions.

Brought to life and recorded by Scott Fairfax in his home studio, Riff Central, this isn't so much of a band effort and rather the work of a dedicated individual, live will be a different story!! Piissed off by pretty much everything going on around him. Angry, haunting and miserable songs are, though. "Nebula" is full of them. An album like an uncompromising alien threat to our planet, as unrelenting and indifferent as an asteroid. The end is coming, folks. Let's all enjoy it while we can.

A trailblazer in the music industry, YUNGIN's journey is marked by unparalleled achievements, including three Grammy Awards for his outstanding contributions to projects including Nas' "King's Disease", Kendrick Lamar's "To Pimp a Butterfly", as well as Nipsey Hussle, Roddy Rich and Hitboy's "Racks In The Middle".

YUNGIN, a Seoul native, began his music career with a focus on audio engineering, graduating at the top of his class from Musicians Institute in 2010. His exceptional talent led to an internship at Chalice Recording Studios in Los Angeles, where he refined his skills and rose to the position of head engineer over six years. During this time, he collaborated with renowned producer Hit-Boy and worked with major American artists such as Nas, Big Sean, Kendrick Lamar, and Nipsey Hussle, as well as prominent Korean artists like RM (BTS), Jimin (BTS), J-Hope (BTS), Baekhyun (EXO), Taeyang, BIBI, and Tiger JK.

Despite his achievements as an audio engineer, YUNGIN aspired to explore his creative potential in music production. He is set to transition from behind the scenes to the forefront as a music producer.

YUNGIN's debut album, "Did You Know? Part 1", offers listeners a deeply personal journey through his life's narrative: his emotions, personality, struggles, insecurities, and triumphs. From feeling "Homesick", without knowing where or what home actually means, to learning how to find home within himself, this album is a representation of his growth and evolution as both an artist and a human being.

The album features collaborations with a diverse array of artists including Jay Park and Jessi. "No Lowkey" and "Love Me No More" represent the chip on YUNGIN's shoulder he's had the majority of his life. This is a relatable concept as many people have had the odds stacked up against them and had to develop certain habits or personalities to cope with these challenges.

For YUNGIN, as a Korean American growing up in Los Angeles, he wanted to break all existing stereotypes that existed about him. "Speed Up" and "Run It Up" represent the eagerness to speed through life, especially during hard times. "Turbulence" represents the ups and downs that we all face, and "Kingpin" is a reminder to ourselves that no matter what our circumstances say, we can come out on top. Finally, Jay Park embodies the warrior spirit in "Stand Out", speaking about his story of failure turned triumph.

		DESCRIPTION Featuring over 100 tracks and remixes from Joris Voorn (exclusive), Biosphere, Plastikman, Kölsch, Roman Flügel, Speedy J, Nathan Fake, Secret Cinema, and many more. Over the 100-plus strong tracklist, GU43 Joris Voorn, Rotterdam both lays bare the city's influence on Joris and demonstrates his exhaustive approach to mix albums. Instead of mixing live on vinyl or CDs, Voorn uses Ableton to edit, arrange or otherwise alter his songs, creating mixes that are as precise and calculated as they are emotional and timeless. It's a method he's been using since his mix for Fuse in 2005, but that was perfected on his infamous Balance 014 compilation in 2009, which saw him blending loops and samples of more than 100 tracks into two mixes. Not only does Voorn's Global Underground album go further than any previous mix he's released, but it does so with a keen eye toward his career birthplace. The mix blends tracks and remixes that Joris has played at modern Rotterdam events like Toffler Festival and Annabel Club, including new music from rising star producers, and old classics that Joris has reinterpreted and now featured exclusively for Global Underground – these nods to the city's musical past sit alongside contemporary collaborations with Rotterdam artists Secret Cinema and Speedy J. JORIS VOORN SAID: "Rotterdam is a city close to my heart, it's where I started my career as a music producer, and gave me the inspiration to make my first tracks. GU43 takes you on a true journey.... One moment you feel you're in the industrial Rotterdam harbour, next you're in the vibrant cultural city centre. Sometimes you're in a dark tunnel under the river that splits North and South before coming up to the tranquillity of a green park. GU43 is an ode to the city that gave me a life in music."

The Exciting Sounds of BUCK OWENS AND HIS BUCKAROOS

Live From Richmond, Virginia, 1964

BUY! HERE'S WHY!

- Earliest known full concert recording of Buck and his Buckaroos!
- Mastered from the original tape by Grammy®-winning engineer Michael Graves.
- Extensive liner note from co-producer Scott B. Bomar.
- First pressing on Strawberry Jam-colored vinyl.

Buck Owens and his Buckaroos were a phenomenon when they burst onto the scene in the early 1960s. In 1963–1964, they had five #1 Country hits including “Act Naturally,” “Love’s Gonna Live Here,” “I Don’t Care (Just As Long As You Love Me),” and “My Heart Skips A Beat.” Their live Carnegie Hall Concert release hit #1 in 1966, but how exciting they were onstage before that was largely unheard. Unless you were there. Until now.

The Exciting Sounds Of Buck Owens And His Buckaroos Live From Richmond, Virginia, 1964 is the recently discovered, earliest full-concert recording of The Buckaroos onstage. The band, performing the aforementioned #1 hits and more, shows how their presence and performance in front of a live audience cemented their status as one of the greatest acts of all time—in person and on record.

Painstakingly restored and mastered by multiple Grammy-winning engineer Michael Graves, The Exciting Sounds Of Buck Owens And His Buckaroos Live From Richmond, Virginia, 1964 shows a band ready to take over the world. (Even showing appreciation to their new labelmates, The Beatles, with a cover of “Twist And Shout.”)

With a first pressing on strawberry jam colored vinyl, The Exciting Sounds Of Buck Owens And His Buckaroos Live From Richmond, Virginia, 1964 looks and sounds like it could and should have appeared in 1964, but with 21st century style and technology.

So, head to Richmond and hear Buck Owens And His Buckaroos firing on all cylinders. It may have happened over six decades ago, but it sounds as vital and important to music history now as ever.

Mutant, in partnership with Hollywood Records and Marvel, is proud to present MARVEL RIVALS: GALACTIC TUNES, the soundtrack to the highly anticipated MARVEL RIVALS video game. The soundtrack to Marvel's first Team-Based Superhero Shooter is appropriately epic in every way. It's heavy on guitar solos, symphonic strings, choirs, and powerful percussion, with infectious melodies that make for an endlessly listenable experience, even outside of the game itself.

The album starts with Adriana Figueroa's "Rivals 'Til the End (Main Theme)," which instantly becomes one of the best anime opening themes you've never heard of until today. It's an immediate earworm that leads off a compilation of fifteen incredibly kinetic tracks, including South Korean singer Le'mon's "Fate of Both Worlds," a mid-album pop funk classic in the making. Pressed on Purple Vinyl.

IRON CITY Houserockers

Blood on the Bricks

"I think Blood On The Bricks is our most professionally, competently, excellently-played record. The band was on fire. Everybody stepped up their game because we were playing with Steve [Cropper]. This record has never been given its proper due and was never even released on CD. I'm very excited to hear it now, the way it should be heard."

—Joe Grushecky from the new album notes

As evidenced from the reception for Houserocker: A Joe Grushecky Anthology and Can't Outrun A Memory (his first new album in years, containing "This Is Who We Are" – which landed the number 8 spot for The Coolest Song in the World 2024 on Little Steven Van Zandt's Underground Garage), the world clearly needs more Joe Grushecky.

Iron City Houserockers burst onto the music scene with their 1979 release Love's So Tough, but their third album, 1981's Blood On The Bricks, is one that fans hold dear. Head Houserocker Joe Grushecky and company (Eddie Britt, Art Nardini, Gil Snyder, Ned Rankin, and Marc Reisman) teamed up with legendary guitarist and songwriter Steve Cropper for a record that also stands tall in the entirety of the heartland rock genre.

For its CD debut, Blood On The Bricks' original 9 tracks are joined by 11 previously unissued bonus tracks, expanding the album to a double-CD set. A newly mixed outtake from the original sessions, a slew of demos, and four smoking live tracks from Cambridge, Massachusetts' legendary Inn-Square Men's Bar round out the set.

Released with full cooperation from Joe and Johnny Grushecky, the remastering adds new punch to this classic release, while the bonus material takes the listener on a journey from the albums' inception through live workouts performed shortly after the album's original release. Add in detailed liner notes from Joe Marchese (TheSecondDisc.com) featuring a new interview with Joe Grushecky, and you have the ultimate Blood On The Bricks experience.
