Mutant is proud to present another contemporary classic from Quebec duo Le Matos, a follow-up to their acclaimed science fiction score, TURBO KID. Released in 2015, the movie TURBO KID became an instant cult hit, and since then, fans have been aching for a video game.

This is the future; the world as we know it is gone. You are The Kid, a lone warrior on a journey to cross the Wasteland in search of hope. What you will find on your way, however, is a land riddled with scoundrels and creeps, which you'll have to go through – sometimes quite literally – to survive.

Propelling this madness is an incredible soundtrack by Le Matos returning to the wasteland they helped create in 2015. They cherry-pick influences from the best of electronic music from the past forty years; John Carpenter, Vangelis, and Tangerine Dream are all touchstones, but so are Daft Punk or Justice, all put through an 80's synthpop blender. Creating some incredible retro-futuristic synth wave sounds, including an astonishing re-teaming with Pawws for the single To Tomorrow. TURBO KID – A place beyond your dreams, a record beyond your imagination.

PSYCHO-FRAME delivers a raw, unfiltered take on modern deathcore with their full-length debut, SALVATION LAUGHS IN THE FACE OF A GRIEVING MOTHER. Drawing influence from classic American death metal while channeling a chaotic, present-day urgency, the band's sound is as deliberate as it is aggressive, built on tightly executed riffs, relentless drumming, and vocals that refuse to hold anything back.

BOILER ROOM

RECTIFY

For Fans of Godsmack, Anthrax, Volbeat, and Metal!

Former Roadrunner and Tommy Boy/Warner Brothers recording artists Boiler Room are back! Originally formed in 1996 in New York City, Boiler Room released their self-titled, independent album that same year produced by future Guns N' Roses guitarist Ron "Bumblefoot" Thal. The addition of Rob Caggiano (Anthrax, Volbeat) in 1998 began a creative writing relationship between him and singer Chris Lino and elevated the band's sound and performance. 1999 saw the band opening for nationally recognized acts along the East Coast, including Type O Negative, Life of Agony, Clutch and Static-X, helping them catch the attention of renowned NYC radio station 92.3 K-ROCK.

The band disbanded in 2001, with Caggiano leaving to join Anthrax and the other members dispersing into various projects. Chris Lino connected with Mike Orlando (Adrenaline Mob) to work on a project. The two remained friends, and in 2022, Orlando reached out to Chris and suggested that he consider re-recording and re-releasing some of Boiler Room's previously released songs.

All the songs were co-produced, mixed, mastered, and engineered by Mike Orlando at his Sonic Stomp Studio in New York City. Jason Bittner (Shadows Fall, Category 7, Overkill) was brought in to play drums on the album while Orlando laid down the rhythm guitars. Ron 'Bumblefoot' Thal guest appears on the title track 'Rectify' Pete Rizzi laid down the bass, and current guitarist Nick Seditious (Soraia, Out of Exile) performed solos on select tracs. The band recruited Tommy Spano (Sekond Skyn, A Pale Horse Named Death, Corey Glover) on drums to round out the current lineup.

WEIRD BISCUIT TEATIME

Starring Daevid Allen

DJDDAY

For Fans of, Gong, The Soft Machine, Hawkwind, and Psychedelic Prog Rock!

Daevid Allen is well known as the founder of The Soft Machine in 1966 and Gong in 1969. Weird Biscuit Teatime is a studio project that he did in the early 2000s with producer/keyboardist Don Falcone of Spirits Burning, bassist Michael Clare from Daevid Allen's University Of Errors, and drummer Trey Sabatelli who has worked with Jefferson Starship, The Tubes, and Todd Rundgren.

The band recorded two albums. DJDDAY was the first, recorded and mixed from 2000 to 2004, and then released in England in 2005. For that release, the band considered putting Daevid's name in the band title. They didn't and the album got buried in the mass of releases at the time. To avoid making the same mistake twice with the second album, "Elevenes," the name of the band was changed to Daevid Allen Weird Quartet.

Now 20 years later, with a new remaster by Robert Rich and five bonus remixes, "DJDDAY" arrives with the band name Weird Biscuit Teatime Starring Daevid Allen to celebrate its 20th Anniversary.

A lost masterpiece by the master of psychedelic/progressive music.

GREEN APPLE QUICK STEP

DIZZY: THE MEDICINE LABEL ANTHOLOGY

BUY! HERE'S WHY!

- Double CD featuring their complete 1993–1995 recordings for The Medicine Label.
- Includes 13 bonus tracks (4 previously unissued).
- Packaging features new liner notes from Joe Marchese (TheSecondDisc.com).

Green Apple Quick Step burst onto the music scene in 1993, just a few years after a band named Mookie Blaylock (soon to be rechristened Pearl Jam) played their first show opening for them.

Their first release, Wonderful Virus, was produced by Daniel Rey (Ramones, King Missile, Misfits), mixed by 14-time Grammy-winner Ron Saint Germain, and recorded at the iconic Bad Animals Studio (owned by Ann and Nancy Wilson of Heart). Featuring “Dirty Water Ocean” and “Ludes And Cherrybombs,” the album put them in strong rotation on alternative radio.

They followed it up with 1995’s Reloaded, produced by Pearl Jam guitarist Stone Gossard and multiple Grammy winner Nick DiDia (Bruce Springsteen, Pearl Jam, Stone Temple Pilots, Rage Against The Machine). The album’s first single, “Dizzy,” was featured both in the film The Basketball Diaries, and on its soundtrack—sitting alongside tracks from The Doors, Soundgarden, Jim Carroll, and The Cult.

While both Wonderful Virus and Reloaded are being reissued on colored vinyl, they also comprise the heart of the double-CD Dizzy: The Medicine Label Anthology. Freshly remastered by multiple Grammy winner Michael Graves, the songs are as vibrant as they were three decades ago. To make this collection even more special, it contains nine bonus tracks including rare remixes and B-sides, and 4 previously unissued tracks featuring songs never before heard!

With packaging featuring new liner notes from Joe Marchese (TheSecondDisc.com) including a new interview lead vocalist Ty Willman, Dizzy: The Medicine Label Anthology captures the 1993–1995 Green Apple Quick Step experience. As exciting as the records were then, they still deliver to this day. So, get dizzy with Dizzy: The Medicine Label Anthology.

GREEN APPLE QUICK STEP

Who would have thought that a few years after Stone Gossard and Mookie Blaylock playing their first show opening for the band that would become Green Apple Quick Step, GAQS's sophomore album would be recorded in the Pearl Jam guitarist's home studio. But, that's exactly what happened . . .

Reloaded, originally released in 1995, was produced by Gossard and multiple Grammy winner Nick DiDia (Bruce Springsteen, Pearl Jam, Stone Temple Pilots, Rage Against The Machine). The album's first single, "Dizzy," was featured both in the film The Basketball Diaries, and on its soundtrack—sitting alongside tracks from The Doors, Soundgarden, Jim Carroll, and The Cult. CMJ New Music Monthly wrote that the "alterna-rock promise of [Wonderful Virus—their debut] in no way hints at the leaps and bounds by which the band seems to have grown, or the unexpected paths Reloaded follows."

Finally, 30 years later, Reloaded gets reintroduced, remastered on white vinyl and is also included on the double CD Dizzy: The Medicine Label Anthology. Its missing status on wax has been rectified, and Reloaded is ready to be loaded onto your turntable.

RELOADED

wonderful virus

In October of 1990, the band Mookie Blaylock performed their first-ever show opening for Inspector Luv And The Ride Me Babys. In 1991, Mookie Blaylock became Pearl Jam. The following year, Inspector Luv became Green Apple Quick Step.

Green Apple Quick Step (GAQS) soon found themselves signed to The Medicine Label, entering Bad Animals Studio (then owned by sisters Ann and Nancy Wilson of Heart, and named after their 3x Platinum 1987 album), working with producer Daniel Rey (Ramones, King Missile, Misfits) and having 14-time Grammy winner Ron Saint Germain mix the material that would become their debut album, Wonderful Virus.

Featuring radio staples like "Dirty Water Ocean" and "Ludes And Cherrybombs," GAQS found themselves once again beside their friends, Pearl Jam, but instead of sharing a stage, they were sharing the airwaves.

Over 30 years later, Wonderful Virus returns, remastered on red vinyl, and is also included on the double CD Dizzy: The Medicine Label Anthology. It's time to get checked out for a Wonderful Virus.

Artist: Heidi Montag
Title: Superficial

Heidi Montag first came to prominence as a reality television personality on MTV's "The Hills," but the multifaceted entertainer has always credited music as her first love. Her debut album, Superficial, on which Montag worked with notable talents including L.P., Cathy Dennis, Stacy Barthe, Steve Morales, and Dave Pensado, has become a cult classic. A remix of "More Is More," produced by Dave Audé, peaked at number 27 on Billboard's dance charts. Montag's one and only public performance of "Body Language" — at the 2009 Miss Universe pageant — was watched by a billion people worldwide.

Hailed as "ahead of its time," Superficial's initial release faltered due to both promotional issues and Montag's status as a reality star. The album has since gained praise for its pure pop sounds, which were influenced by Britney Spears and Janet Jackson, as well as for its message of empowerment. In 2018, Life&Style pronounced the album "criminally underrated." In 2023, the Superficial track "I'll Do It" became one of the top trending sounds on TikTok, garnering more than a billion streams and poising Montag for a musical comeback. Her most recent re-releases of the tracks "Bad Boy" and "Touch Me" have been celebrated by fans, who all have one question: "What's next?" First time on CD and Vinyl and now in-stores!
